Sunday a.m. collision claims motorcyclist from Canning Lake

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

A Canning Lake resident was killed when his motorcycle collided with a truck on Sunday morning.

Vernon McCullough was a retired engineer who lived with his wife Diana at his former cottage on Gravel Pit Road.

At 7:20 a.m. on June 26, he was riding his motorcycle west on Hwy. 121, says Const. Ben Manuge of the Minden OPP. It was raining, and for some unknown reason, he went through the junction with Hwy. 35 and collided with a south-bound half-ton truck driven by Ernest Morley of Guilford Township. Mr. McCullough died at the scene. He was 68 years old.

"I'll miss him very much," says Chic Minaker of Lochlin, who curled with the McCulloughs in the Haliburton Seniors league. "He was very nice and lots of fun, with an active sense of humour — he didn't miss a trick. But he was very subtle. He was a really nice chap, a good friend."

The McCulloughs have cottaged and lived on the lake for several years. The cottage was turned into their permanent home when he retired from engineering and his wife retired from nursing. They have a daughter who just returned from Paris, France, where she was studying, and a son who lives in Nanaimo, British Columbia.

Funeral arrangements have been made with the Gordon Monk Funeral Home in Minden. There is visitation today (Tuesday) from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9. The funeral is in the chapel at 11 a.m. on Wednesday.

Echo wins five national awards

The Haliburton County Echo has won five national awards in the annual newspaper competition sponsored by the Canadian Community Newspaper Association.

In general excellence, the Echo placed second in Canada among newspapers with a circulation of 4,500 to 6,500. It also came in second for best editorial pages.

In the writing and photography categories, last summer's writers won the Best Feature category with their series on youth and education. The contributing writers were Janet Hurley, Andrew Meeson, Linda Shutt and Martha Perkins. This category was open to all Canadian community newspapers with a circulation of 4,000 to 12,500.

Martha Perkins' feature on Jean and Cliff Heckel's experience working on the Avro Arrow came in second in the Historical category, which was also open to all newspapers with a circulation of 4,000 to 12,500.

And finally, Martha Perkins' photo essay on the re-painting of the Essonville Church came in first in the Photo Essay category in the same circulation.

This is the eighth year that judges have chosen the Echo as one of the top three newspapers in its circulation category.

BUDDING BALLERINAS: These high stepping young dancers took part in their first recital in front of proud parents last Monday. The girls are students of Diana Williams. Her older students got their chance to perform on Wednesday night, with similarly pleasing results for all who were on hand at the Dyrast auditorium to enjoy the event.

Berry, Anthon to vie for Reeve

by WENDY BIRD
Staff Reporter

On November 14, municipal elections will be taking place, and so far, Anson, Hindon and Minden voters will have two candidates to choose from when electing a reeve: incumbent Bern Berry and AHM councillor Jeanne Anthon.

Although Berry had indicated earlier that he did not intend to run for office again, he has since unexpectedly changed his mind. The retired Metro Toronto police officer says his experience in municipal office will be a factor in the minds of the voters.

"I don't plan to change my style," Berry said during a phone interview Monday from his Minden home.

"I run the municipality as I run my own home . . . if you can't afford it, you can't get it."

This sometimes unpopular approach to municipal spending has paid off for AHM, especially for the taxpayers. Berry is proud to note that during the last few budgets he's overseen, taxpayers have not experienced a tax increase any greater than two per cent.

"I feel that my experience on council will help to keep taxes this way in the future," he says.

Berry says he has also gained the confidence of the municipality's employees, staff and councillors, especially during last year's social contract process, which threw many municipalities across Ontario into financial chaos. But not AHM. The municipality managed to successfully smooth over the edges of the Bob Rae creation and give an overall two per cent pay increase to its employees.

"We were one of the few municipalities across Ontario which were able to do that," he said.

"I got a lot of negative feedback from the taxpayers about the increase, but I feel that if you want to keep good people you have to treat them like you want to keep them."

Berry says he intends to stand on "his own good record" in office as his campaign platform.

"I do not intend to receive any financial contributions for my campaign like some politicians do," he explained. "I don't want to be a reeve of that particular group, but of the citizens in AHM. I want to be able to look at issues objectively, not subjectively."

Berry says that he has an "open door policy" and that he's always willing to lend an ear to people who have concerns about AHM and the county.

Berry won the position of Reeve three years ago with a total of 793 votes, heading off candidates Verne Graham (645), Ray Moore (492) and Ron Gambell (396).

Councillor Jeanne Anthon is looking forward to November's election as a time for change and a chance to bring a new and positive attitude to AHM and to the county.

"I have been told that voters are looking for a candidate who is positive and productive . . . which many say has been lacking in the municipality, and at the county table," Anthon says.

"I have been told and I believe that I offer that new attitude."

If this November's election results are as good as the results which brought her on as councillor for the first time three years ago, she and Berry will both be strong contenders. With a total of 1761 votes, Anthon proved to be the voters' favorite, with councillors Grant Ploord and Gerald Rome following with 1,288 and 1,107 votes respectively.

Minden officers attend funeral for Const. Baylis

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

Almost a year after they had to bury one of their own, five officers with the Minden OPP attended a funeral for a Toronto officer who also died while on duty.

Constables Mark McMaster, Mike Landry and Rick Gooch, Sgt. Art Goad and retired Staff Sgt. Bill Elliott took part in what has been described as Canada's largest funeral. On Wednesday, they joined 10,000 fellow officers and 2,000 private citizens paying tribute to Metro Police Constable Todd Baylis. Const. Baylis was shot and killed two weeks ago when he and his partner responded to a call at a Toronto apartment building.

There were many similarities between Const. Baylis and Minden OPP Const. Eric Nystedt, who died on July 3, 1994. They were both young, keen officers who had already made an impact during their brief careers. Const. Nystedt was stabbed in the leg when he and Const. Landry responded to a disturbance at a party near Furnace Falls last year.

"It touches a lot closer to home," Const. McMaster says of why so many Minden officers wanted to attend Const. Baylis's funeral. It doesn't seem like a year since Const. Nystedt died, and the pain of his death is still very deeply felt.

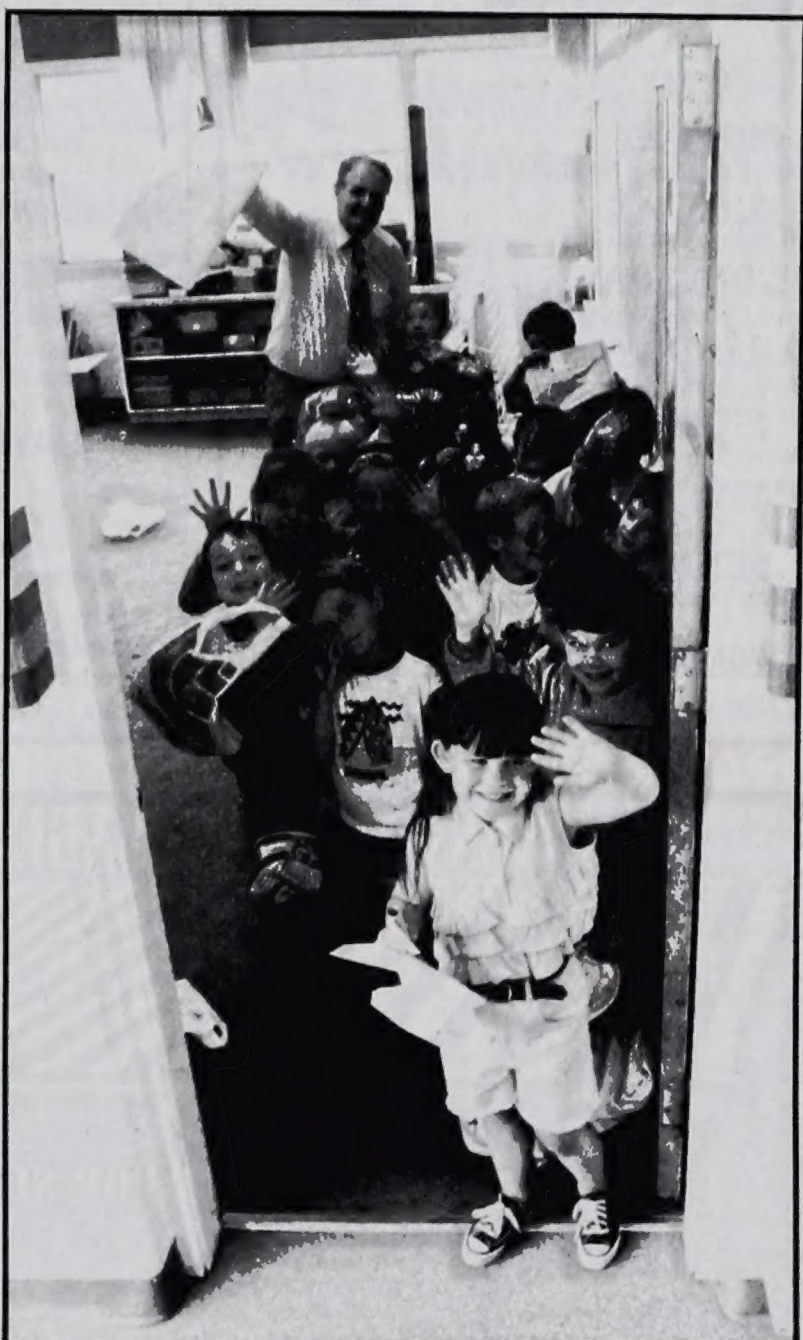

The Minden officers joined in the sea of blue as officers marched from the church to the funeral home. As they waited in the heat, people would bring them water and extend their sympathy to all officers.

"It's nice to know that there are people out there who support you still," says Const. McMaster, who once worked on the Metro police force. "Basically you know the majority of people support you, but unfortunately, sometimes it takes an incident like this for them to be vocal."

"I guess you just hope that something good comes out of it."

Emotions are riding high in Minden as the anniversary of Const. Nystedt's death approaches, and the funeral just sharpens their intensity. "I'm sure the actual day will be tough," says Const. McMaster.

Meanwhile, a preliminary hearing has already been held for the man accused of first degree murder in Const. Nystedt's death. The lawyers for Lenard Roy Phillips, of Fenelon Falls, have applied for a change of venue and a poll is being done to determine whether an impartial jury can be found in the Lindsay area. It is expected that a trial will begin at the end of July.

GOODBYE KINDERGARTEN: Ted Glendinning's Kindergarten students at Wilberforce Elementary School were all smiles on Friday as they lined up inside their classroom for the last time. Buses would soon arrive, taking the students home, where they could begin their summer holidays.

Trees must be removed, MNR forester cautions

by WENDY BIRD
Staff Reporter

A total of fourteen rotting trees along the Gull River bank in Minden should be removed and replaced, says local Ministry of Natural Resources forester Peter Hynard.

As requested by Anson, Hindon and Minden public works superintendent Clayton Cameron, the MNR recently assessed the condition of the black willow trees which line the river and recommended to council during its last meeting that some of the trees be removed. MNR forestry technician James Munn assessed each of the 29 trees, looking at their health, structural soundness, life expectancy, and the degree of their lean in order to come up with this recommendation.

Although consideration of these factors is important, Hynard stressed that council should think about such factors as the contribution of the trees to the beauty of the town, and the attachment the community has to them — especially the trees which are a particular favorite to youngsters. But, council is faced with a difficult decision, especially considering that the rotting trees may be a hazard to public safety and can be a municipal liability.

"Windstorms and ice-load place far more stress on trees than the weight of a few teenagers," Hynard explained.

"But the removal of some of these trees can be avoided — for the interim — as long as they are carefully monitored."

Reeve Bern Berry suggested that the trees be removed gradually in order to avoid a big shock to the community — which would most definitely come if the trees were removed all at once.

According to a report compiled by Hynard and Munn, many of the river bank's black willows have extensive heart-rot. Willow with heart-rot break easily at major forks during wind or ice storms. All of the 29 trees along the river carry some degree of risk, but the trees with the most rot should be cut down soon.

Willow can tolerate flooding, but not drought, the report states, and it is Haliburton's repeated droughts from 1986 to 1991 that caused the serious die-back in the tops of Minden's willows, especially along the riverbank. This rot is also compounded by the fact that many of the trees are very old, although the MNR was unable to determine the exact age of the trees due to the extensive rot. Black willow is a fast-growing tree with a short life expectancy, normally 55-58 years at most.

Hynard recommended that municipality replace the willows with trees from the hardwood and coniferous families, such as Norway maple, green ash, or red maple; all of which make ideal shade trees. Hynard suggested that white pine would also be an ideal coniferous tree along the riverbank. He also noted that ornamental species of trees, like flowering crab, may also complement the area.

Council took the report under advisement

TRUCK TIPPED: This transport truck dipped a bit too far into a ditch on Highway 121 on Wednesday morning to make way for an oncoming mover carrying a portable classroom. The truck, which was at the crest of a hill east of Dover Springs Road when the moving portable appeared, immediately pulled to the side of the Highway without realizing the depth of the ditch. No one was hurt and there were no damages, OPP say. The portable arrived safely to Gooderham Public School grounds on schedule.

Fine arts guild "holds its own"

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

Despite the recession, the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts held its own this past year, providing a creative outlet for dozens of local artisans and creating an opportunity for artists to share their work with the community.

"Art has a difficult time surviving in these economic times and without the uplifting of the Rails' End Gallery, this community would not be what it is," said Barb Bolin, principal of Sir Sandford Fleming College and long-time Guild supporter, at the annual general meeting at the Haliburton Curling Club on Wednesday night.

The Guild runs the Haliburton gallery, which offers two display spaces and a gift shop. While sales from gallery shows were down from previous year, the gallery was still able to host 18 exhibits, two discovery tours for local students, including a print making workshop with Jamie Woodman. The gallery is also a home base for the many smaller guilds which knit together craftspeople from across the county.

"What is seen every day, day in and out, may easily become what is taken for granted when indeed, it is something very special," curator Holly Hutchison said. "The Guild is something of which we can all be proud. I hope to encourage our members to keep working with the Guild and to keep participating in Guild functions, keeping it strong and healthy..."

"Without these people who are willing to give their time, their energy, skills and knowledge, our Guild would not have agained and retained its good reputation in the Ontario arts community."

In the past year, sales from the gift shop dropped by $10,000 to $21,900. (Costs of running the shop also dropped by $10,000.) However, proceeds from the summer exhibition and sale increased, from $58,400 to $65,700. Other fundraising activities netted an increase of $200, or $32,190. Grants from Dysart et al and the Ontario Arts Council remained constant at $19,000 and $15,000 respectively.

Five new board members were elected: Ed Araquel, Primrose Birrell, Jean Bolt, Howard Smith and Joan Stinson. Long-time board member Barb Bolin announced she was stepping down, although she will remain active at the gallery. She had words of praise for Hutchison, bookkeeper Norma Douglas, President Claire MacLeod and Past-president Maggie McClure, who have worked hard to make the Guild and gallery such a success.

Also stepping down are two members of the concert series committee. Ruth Still helped bring the concerts to Haliburton 13 years ago, and Jean Clark has also done a lot of work which benefits local music lovers.

Ted Carson announced the line-up for the upcoming concert series: Wingfield's Folly, the third in the trilogy, on October 16; Romanian-born violinist Ioan Harea, who will also play some Gypsy music, on November 13; and the Algonquin Trio, featuring violin, cello and piano, on March 5, 1995. "We feel positive about the next season," Carson said, adding that series tickets are now available.

Two hard-working Guild members, Diane Arpy and Virginia Muenzel, were made honorary members.

Project to create many jobs for locals

almost finished. Construction of these five projects, which are expected to create and estimate 252 person-weeks of employment, should be completed by December.

"The jobs created will be a boost to the local economy," said

Mr. Philip on Friday.

"I am pleased these projects will provide immediate benefit to the municipality, contribute to the economic renewal and help provide improved services for residents."

Canada/Ontario Infrastructure works is a $2.1-billion shared-cost program designed to create jobs through local priority projects which will improve the province's infrastructure. Canada, Ontario and local partners like AHM are each contributing one-third of the project funding.

"We're really pleased with the announcement," Reeve Berry said. "And we're especially looking forward to the possible announcement of funding for the arena, where we will be completing an energy retrofit, including rewiring and the replacement of windows and doors to make the building more energy efficient."

The Reeve went on to explain that years of solid financial planning has enabled AHM's council to apply for this funding, and more.

"We're in a good financial position to take advantage of this program because we have a substantial and solvent reserve fund."

Taxes will not rise as a result of these projects, Berry says.

Two candidates vie for reeve

Anthony says that she's up to the challenges which will face her if she wins the position of Reeve.

"There are a lot of problems facing our area, especially since the recession," she said.

"I want to get into some concrete strategic planning for the good times and the bad — at both the municipal and county level."

Anthony says she considers projects like the proposed trails/tours network strategy (see story in this issue of The Echo) to be a positive, long-term booster of Haliburton's tourism-based economy.

"This project has been in the works for a long time and it comes from the grass roots level," she says. "And that's important."

"In the future I also want to help bring new ideas to the municipality and to the county."

But above all, Anthony says that she doesn't plan to "change" now that she's on the election path.

"I'm very involved with the community — through various committees and groups — and I plan to keep it that way."

For Anthony, she says getting involved has been her way to keep in touch with the community and what it needs. Anthony moved to Haliburton County from Mississauga after several years of cottaging on Mountain Lake. (She is the past president of the Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Associations.) She now calls the area her home.

Here, There and Everywhere...

Congratulations to the Campus Quiz team at J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School. For the fifth year in a row, under the direction of faithful coach Roy Hoare, the team won the championship. Team members are Graeme Fawcett, Kim Varty, Andrew Baker, Alaina Benoit and Adam Clarkson. The winning game will be broadcast on CHEX TV on July 2 at 12:30 p.m.. The school and the community praise the team and coach for working so hard to achieve success.

Are you proud of your garden, your cooking, your sewing or your photography? You can show the world your talents at the Minden Agricultural Society's display at the fair this summer. If you want to see if there is a category you can enter, the 1994 Haliburton County Fair books are now available. They can be picked up in Haliburton at the Tourist Information Booth, Country Magic, Home Hardware and the Rails' End Gallery. In Minden they are available at the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, Country Magic, McMahon Feed N Harness and Henderson Insurance.

This certainly is the summer for animal sightings. On Tuesday night just before midnight, Madeline Doyle heard a rattling sound on the porch of her Eagle Lake home. When she looked out, she saw a bear. Unfortunately, it appeared that the bear had lost one of its front paws, probably to a leg-hold trap. It hobbled around the porch, smelling the flowers and the compost heap, and then plopped down on the porch like a dog. It lay there for about an hour and a half before heading back to the woods.

Ruth and Denver Lewis are providing a temporary home to two adorable cats which had been abandoned by their original owner. The Lewises love animals, but with two cats and two dogs already in their household, they're unable to keep the two new additions. The cats are about a year old, a gray tabby and an orange tabby, affectionately known as the Bobbsey Twins. If you can welcome one or both of them to your home, call the Lewises at 457-2088.

There are hundreds of Highlanders who jog, but how would you like to take part in a 50-mile jaunt through Haliburton Forest? Believe it or not -- and even ardent joggers might have problems with this one -- that's the distance to be travelled on foot in an upcoming "Ultra Run." The event takes place on July 23 at Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Reserve, and Dave Bishop expects it will take competitors between eight and 12 hours to complete the course. If this sounds like fun call 754-2198.

There will be youth concerts on the last Sunday of June, July and August at the West Guilford Baptist Church. The concerts, which will appeal to high school students, start at 7:30 p.m. and everyone is welcome. For more information, call 754-1476.

The Haliburton Royal Canadian Legion is once again hosting the area's only blood donor clinic. On Tuesday, July 12, people are asked to take part in the annual Red Cross Blood Donor's Clinic. There is always a shortage of blood at hospitals throughout the province, so the need for donors is just as great as it has been in the past. Burn victims, accident victims and people undergoing surgery all need this life-giving donation. The time of the clinic is 1:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Haliburton Legion. A photo/signature identification is needed.

For residents in eastern Haliburton County, Maggie's new women's resource centre is now operational. A grand opening is planned for August, but currently a number of services are offered at the resource centre in Bancroft separate from the Safe Homes Program. You can drop by the annex (across from Canadian Tire) any weekday to chat and have coffee, there's a reference library on women's issues and there will be a program of guest speakers, workshops and support groups starting in the fall. For more information, call Maggie's at its new number -- (613) 332-1878.

OACL "listens to needs" to meet with mandate

by SUE BACHNER
Staff Reporter

Social service agencies in small communities have one thing over their urban counterparts, says the president of the Ontario Association for Community Living -- a natural sense of neighbourly concern.

Cheryl Easton, from OACL's Mississauga office, spoke at the annual general meeting of the Haliburton County Association for Community Living Thursday night.

"Your community comes naturally. We (in Mississauga) unfortunately have to create one," she said to a crowd of more than 40 at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School cafeteria.

She commended HCACL's success over the past year, and reminded the association of each component that keeps them together.

First there are the financial contributors. "For some people that's all they can give and we appreciate all of their donations." Without these contributions, there would be dreams but no hope, she said.

There are those with connections who bring resources (money and expertise, for example) to the agency, and then there are the dreamers -- "people who push us and stretch us, and we resist but we get there."

And finally there are the leaders. Sometimes they are parents, sometimes they're professionals and other times they are the people who use their services.

"We haven't yet created the perfect world," but by listening carefully to the needs of their people, agencies will be able to stay in tune with their mandate -- to help people with special needs be of the community, and not just in it.

A tight year

Over the past year, the provincial government's social contract cut the organization's budget by 75 percent, but HCACL supported more people in spite of this. The association continued to offer quality service by downsizing its Haliburton group home from seven to five residents, shifting employees to different roles and expanding two of its independent living programs.

It continues to employ 12 full time and five part-time staff, whose wages are below the average offered by other agencies in the province, says executive director Cheryl Curry.

New board

The 1994 Board of Directors, which is made up of community volunteers who will oversee personnel, financial and program-related matters are Sue Newell (president), Linda Easton (past president), Pat Burke (vice president), Gerry Dawson (treasurer), Linda Brandon, Lynn Tate, Barry Cray, Bob Heinze, Earl Kent, and Tom Vos.

Trails/tours network promises to boost county tourist trade

by WENDY BIRD
Staff Reporter

Although the recession seems to have stopped its downward spiral, Haliburton County's Chamber of Commerce president Brian Dean says that the county's only true ticket out of the recession will be if municipalities buy into a new tourism marketing approach: the trails-tours network strategy.

For almost three years the Haliburton County Tourism and Recreation Development Committee, led by Steve Heming, has been working diligently on this strategy which ties all of the county's tourists attractions — including lakes, rivers, forests, arts, artisans, sports trail and venues — into a package which can be extensively marketed outside the county to help promote tourism.

The "trails-tours network strategy" will provide maps that link the many and varied activities which make the Highlands unique to tourists. A consulting company will be hired to take an inventory of what the county has to offer — from ski trails-tours to studio tours and resorts — and what the county should be offering. A series of packages will then be drawn up of 15 or more trails-tours that would be a gateway to the county's resources.

The Tourism and Recreation Development Committee, which has the support of the Haliburton's Chamber of Commerce and Community Futures Committee, received in March a long-awaited grant for the program of $57,500 from the Ministry of Tourism, Culture and Communication. By the time November rolls around, the start-up of the project is expected to be completed, provided that the municipalities get on-line with their financial support now.

Dysart et al, and Anson Hindon, and Minden are the trails-tours network's two "biggest players" when it comes to financial support, and AHM only recently endorsed the project to the tune of almost $4,000. Dysart et al still has some reservations, especially considering that the Haliburton Forest Owners Association plans to deny access of their properties to the public in protest of the government's recent removal of the managed forest tax rebate program. Dysart's share would be around the $8,000 mark.

Other municipalities, namely Stanhope, Glamorgan and Bicroft, will also lend financial support to the trails-tours network; however Sherborne et al, Lutterworth, Snowdon, and Cardiff say they will not. Monmouth is still undecided. If Dysart does endorse the trails-tours network, then co-ordinators of the project say they are confident they can proceed, since the county's Chamber of Commerce may be able to make up for the shortfall.

"You are buying a package that we can use in 1995 to promote tourism," Dean said to AHM council last week. He is also a co-ordinator of the trails-tours network system.

"Without this project we have nothing new to offer... it will die without your support."

Despite mounting financial constraints, AHM council did endorse the project which Dean says will give the county a "chance to compete better than ever before" for tourism dollars.

AHM councillor Jeanne Anthon said that the municipalities which choose to support the trails-tours network marketing strategy are promoting a legitimate use of tax dollars. "I'd like to see AHM lead the way in this very dramatic production," she said. "It's a critical opportunity for our county to move ahead."

Co-ordinators of the trails-tours network say that this is a rare opportunity to "cash in" on this kind of government grant.

"A project this size (county-wide) has never been done before," says trail network volunteer Laurie Roberts. "If we don't do it, other counties will be sure to jump in on this project."

Service clubs and organizations have also been approached with respect to supporting the project.

Business briefs

On Monday, the Bank of Nova Scotia in Wilberforce opened a new automated banking machine. It will be accessible to card holders 24-hours a day, seven days a week and can handle nearly all your banking needs. In this photo are bank staff, from left, Barry Lessard, Marlene Watson, Angela Finlay, Debbie Donaldson, Gerri Waugh, Brenda Berning and Jill Lee. Lessard, the bank's manager, says "the Scotia Bank Wilberforce ABM installation demonstrates a strong commitment to the local community by the Bank of Nova Scotia."

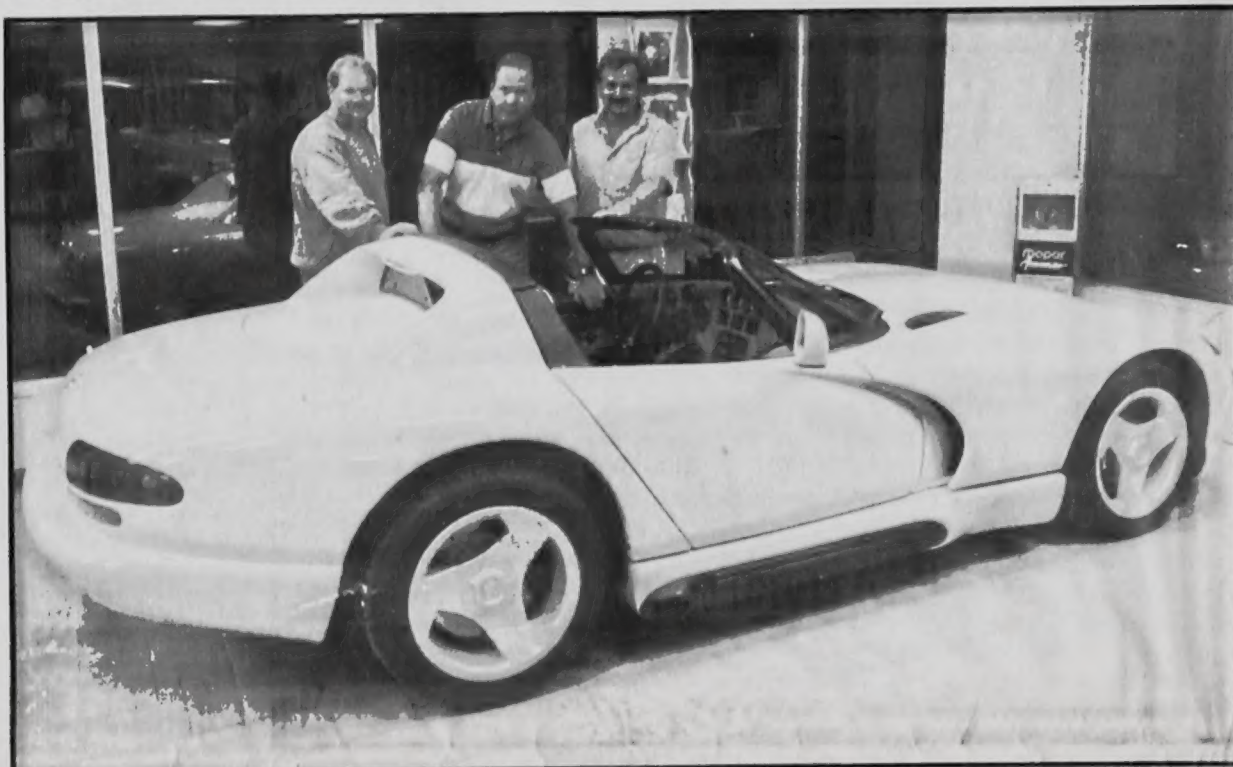

Business has been booming at Boomer's, the new restaurant on Haliburton's main street. The restaurant/café/take-out is owned by Mark and Donna Brohm and they've decorated it with authentic memorabilia from the 1950s. But the restaurant doesn't just appeal to Baby Boomers. Many modern-day teenagers have been fascinated by the original juke box, choosing such hits as Peggie Sue. The restaurant's breakfast and luncheon menu includes a daily special. It is located in the former site of Re/Max.

Also new on Haliburton's main street is Dave's on 121, a popular recreation of Dave Honderich's Dave's on 35. People can enjoy char-broiled hamburgers and fries at either location during the summer.

Brian Watts and Patti Morrison are the new owners of the Ingoldsby General Store. Many changes have been made (there's no more purple paint) and the take-out menu has been enlarged. The store includes 200 videos and all the convenience items you may need for a summer at the lake. The store will be open year round, with gas for boats, cars and snowmobiles. Call 286-6962.

Want to dance? The Haliburton Rotary Club is presenting the 1st Annual Re/Max Miracle Dance on Saturday July 9. Proceeds will be donated to both the Children's Miracle Network at Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, and the local Haliburton County Hospital Fund. Advance tickets are only $5 ($7 at the door) and for that low price, you can enjoy an evening of dancing to the tunes of Summerwind, a local band with a new wave mainstream country flair. Doors at the Dysart Community Centre open at 8 p.m. and the band begins at 9. There is a cash bar and Dysart has donated the use of the hall. Summerwind members are Ian Brohm on piano and vocals, Vince Duchene on bass and vocals, Scott Russell on lead guitar and vocals, Kevin Cowan on drums.

Viper strikes Haliburton!

Glen McEachern and Don Stewart of Performance Recreation are pictured here picking up the keys to their new Viper, a 400 hp open air roadster built by Chrysler. Salesman Tim Chambers was sad to see the bright yellow car leave the Elstone Motors showroom because only 2,800 Vipers were assembled this year — and only 500 of them came to Canada. The two men had been lucky enough to order one and they certainly are noticeable as they drive around Haliburton Lake.

Minden OPP detachment now doing more with less

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

The Minden OPP detachment is able to do more with less — thanks to the increasing involvement of local residents.

"Things have got better over the past few years, even though we've had cutbacks, we're short on manpower and the computers take up more time," says Const. Mike Landry, the detachment's information officer.

He gives much of the credit to community policing, the new partnership between the community and the police officers. "When it comes to dealing with the community and getting help from the community, it's come a long way."

Three years ago, the OPP decided to put greater emphasis on the officer's role in the community. Instead of riding around in cruisers, officers were assigned to sub-offices in nearly all the local villages. As a result, officers learned more about the community and in return, the community responded by taking more responsibility. Volunteer police committees sprung up everywhere, some more active than others, but all with a commitment to do what they can to assist the police.

"We can't do it ourselves," says Const. Landry. "The whole idea was to get back in the community, and have people get to know you and tell them we need your help."

The help has been forthcoming. By working together, communities are now safer than they were before.

Const. Landry says there's been no noticeable increase in crime over the past year. But the police are able to do a better job in solving those crimes because of the community's help.

Under the old system, if the police were looking for a certain vehicle, they'd look on their own. Now they tell the community that they're looking for the car, and they have all those extra sets of eyes helping them.

"People want to hear about what's going on and how they can help," says Const. Landry. It's not just members of volunteer police associations, either. Police officers are now more visible on the streets, and young people are also more forthcoming with information. Talking with an officer is no longer a taboo, and young people often provide valuable insights. "If we're looking for someone in town we can stop and ask and they'll help us."

Sometimes by making people more aware of crime problems there can be a perception that this is more crime. Const. Landry says this isn't necessarily so. There have been no marked increases in any area. However, with such things as spousal abuse, there may be more reports of abuse, but that doesn't mean there are more cases of abuse. Society is just more willing to see wife abuse as a crime.

As well, the economy has an adverse effect, and Const. Landry hopes that will only be temporary. "It's like a chain reaction. The family is doing fine, paying their bills. Then all of a sudden someone loses their job, money's tighter and tension increases in the house."

Statistics are also very difficult to read. If there are fewer seatbelt violations than last year, does that mean more people are wearing their seatbelts or officers have less time to write out tickets?

In another example, Const. Landry expects there will be an increase in thefts of sports water crafts, such as Sea-Dos, simply because they are becoming more popular. If something is valuable and can be stolen, then it will be the target of thieves.

GRADUATION TEA

Hodgson criticizes MNR action

The following is a statement made by Victoria-Haliburton MPP Chris Hodgson in the Ontario Legislature on June 13:

This province's forest management plan calls for 20 percent of the timber production to come from private forests. That works out at about five million cubic metres per year.

The problem is that Ontario's private forests are in danger. When the managed forest tax rebate program was rescinded last year with no consultation, the Minister of Natural Resources failed to adequately consider the consequences of such a move.

The private woodlot owners depended on the relief offered by the rebate program to justify maintaining their forests instead of clearing their land for other uses. Now the incentive is gone and so are thousands of trees. Sustainability is being sacrificed out of necessity just to keep up with an outdated property tax system that assesses forests as residential property.

Ontario's private forests are home to recreational trail systems that stretch for thousands of kilometres, bringing much-needed wealth and prosperity to hundreds of communities. Private forests are essential to the long-term viability of forestry and tourism in Ontario.

EDITORIAL C is for co-operation

Visitors to the Highlands might be surprised at the coverage given to local graduates in this week's Echo. In the past week, we visited nearly every school in the county to document the pride the community feels in its young people. As a result, it seems that we have a picture of nearly every student in Haliburton County somewhere in our pages! Whether you know the students or not, this week's paper has become an important testament to the county's education system.

It was just 50 years ago that most students in the county finished their education with their entrance exam. At the age of 14, many young people were looking for work, helping their parents at the farm or spending their winters in local lumber camps. World War II changed all that. For many of the parents and grandparents, therefore, last week's graduation hold a special promise — children graduating today have far more opportunities than they did, recession or not.

But mixed in with that pride, there must also be a hint of concern. Much has been said of the board of education's budget increases (50% since 1990), and while there are some legitimate complaints, many people fail to realize the increasing pressures placed on our schools. For many children, schools have become the only place of stability in their lives, the place where they learn about discipline and co-operation, the place where they are supposed to master the "basics" while juggling with all the other demands of growing up in such a complicated society. Some parents have given teachers the responsibility of teaching their children more than just reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic. In a few cases, they have even abdicated all their responsibilities, leaving the teachers to pick up the emotional pieces.

Education is a partnership between parents, students, teachers and the community. The community agrees to pay for schools through property taxes, and in return, it expects graduates who have a solid educational foundation so they can be productive members of our society. This can't be achieved by the teachers alone. Teachers need parents to reinforce what's taught in the classroom. It can be as simple as making your child read for a portion of each day, monitoring what they watch on television and instilling a respect for teachers. (This last point is becoming increasingly important. Unfortunately, some parents are criticizing teachers in front of their children. If parents have a complaint, they should bring it up with the teacher or the board, and until it's resolved, they should not be sharing their concerns with their children. How can children go to school and pay attention to someone their parents have openly criticized?)

Within the county we have the teachers, parents and community support that are needed to prepare our young people for the future. Taking advantage of this potential should not be left until the glitter of graduation.

In sympathy, again

It's been a year since Minden OPP Const. Eric Nystedt died while on duty and in many ways people are still coping with their grief. For police officers and their wives especially, it's as if the knife which killed Const. Nystedt also cut into their soul, leaving a wound that will probably never close. It wasn't just the death of a fellow officer which affected them so deeply, it was the loss of a man they had also called a friend. The same can be said for the many people in the community who knew Const. Nystedt on a more personal level. He was such an "alive" person — busy, active and caring. To all of these people, the community once again extends its sympathies. Such a tragedy should have never happened, and together we must try to ensure it never happens again.

Religious symbols are not the issue

To the Editor
from our Readers

To the Editor:

I cannot leave unchallenged Joan Irish's letter re Sikhs and Jews being welcome in the Canadian Legion but not their religious symbolism. She does raise some very valid issues. Should religious symbols be allowed in Canadian Legion halls? Do private organizations have the right to set any rules they so desire? Is the turban worn by Sikhs merely part of a uniform?

To the question as to whether religious symbolism is allowable in Canadian Legion halls under the current mandate, the answer is a decided yes. People go in and out wearing crosses, crucifixes and stars of David, all religious symbols. Presumably Christian clergyman wearing clerical collars are welcome also.

The issue is not over religious symbolism, but over religious headgear. In the Legion, it has been considered a mark of disrespect to fallen comrades, to wear a hat in the hall. At one time, we had other customs that were likewise done out of respect. One would not attend a funeral wearing a colour other than black. It was disrespectful for women not to wear hats in church. Gentlemen wore hats too, but respectfully removed them when inside. Only virgins wore white when they married, out of respect for the then code of honour.

In our not too distant past, private Canadian clubs excluded Jews with or without their yarmulkas. Those were the "rules", presumably also democratically reached, set by those "private" organizations. Private Canadian businesses, also presumably having the right to set their own rules, once posted over their entrances large signs reading, "No Irish Need Apply". Rotary International, that Ms. Irish cites as another organization setting its own rules, at one time excluded women from membership. Using Mrs. Irish's criteria, Rotary in looking at possibly modifying their rules in this area in the sixties, could have decided that women could attend, but only if there was no outward appearance indicating their gender. Ms. Irish, there was even a time when women did not have the vote, and presumably, when letters to the Editor written by women were not published. Should we return to those halcyon days?

Ms. Irish cites the turban worn by Sikhs as being the uniform of their regiment while fighting for the British crown. how does she suppose that uniform came about? Is she perhaps suggesting that the Crown chose to outfit one of their regiments with a turban, which then, in turn, became the religious headgear of Sikhs? If she checks her history, she will find that the Crown, recognizing the importance of this religious symbolism to that particular community, as well as the safety factors involved, (orthodox Sikhs do not cut their hair), opted for a Sikh regiment, turbans and all.

Thank God that not all veterans feel as Ms. Irish does. But then they had to fight the Nazi threat, and watch their comrades die, so that we did not have to live in the type of world Adolph Hitler would have imposed on us, A world peopled only by blonde blue-eyed Aryans. Canada and its immigration policy has changed since our veterans valiantly fought in order that we be free. One might say that those changes have not all been good, if they allow criminal elements to stay in this country. All immigrants, however, are not criminals. Some are veterans who likewise fought Nazism, though they may not have been in the Canadian Forces during WWII due to the demographics of the time. Both men and women fought and died to rid this world of tyranny, intolerance and hatred. They were of many religious persuasions and nationalities. Let them not have died in vain, please.

Patricia M. Gibson,
Minden.

Legion rejects Sikhs, reader says

To the Editor:

I want to take issue with Joan Irish for her assertion in the Echo of Tuesday, June 21 that "Sikh and Jewish veterans are welcome; (in the Legion) their religious symbols are not". Certain symbols are central to their identity, an identity they probably assumed at birth. they certainly did not begin wearing turbans when they joined the army as part of their regimental uniforms as Irish seems to suggest. The Legion is, therefore, truly rejecting the Sikhs.

The writer's aversion to religious symbols I find suspicious, because the Haliburton Legion sponsors church parades and has a Protestant padre.

The first principle of the Legion is that it "constitute an association of those who have served or are serving in Her Majesty's armed forces". To impede their entry for a tradition of removing certain forms of headgear contravenes this vital first principle. But to allow an exception in the case of certain groups like Sikhs is to confirm the primacy of that principle. At the same time the exception preserves the Legion tradition for most members.

The country doesn't need to wake up in fear of its identity as Irish asserts. The cries of outrage that have been heard aren't from those "who came to our country to proselytize their own insidious intolerance". They come from citizens who know that Canada's identity and finest traditions are based on generosity and tolerance for diversity.

This Legion controversy began when a Sikh veteran of the British Army of India attended a Legion Remembrance Day ceremony as a guest. he was barred entrance to the club rooms because he was wearing a turban. A person entitled to be a full member publicly standing in solidarity with us was embarrassed. In this act, the membership of every Legion member was devalued. In many minds the Legion became nothing more than a bareheaded drinking society. Nothing will suffice but an apology, and concrete steps to ensure that such a thing never happens again in any Legion branch. The Legion should get on with it.

Jim Milne,
West Guilford.

Two Saturdays in July...

OFF THE CUFF
GEORGE LACY

I PAUSED IN MY MARCH across the lawn with my old fashioned hand mower as he crossed the strip of boulevard that ran down the centre of our tree shaded street. "Good morning, Gord," I greeted. "Looks like another scorcher."

"You can bet on it," he said. "Better get that job done before the sun gets any higher."

"How about a beer?" I suggested.

"Sounds good," he said. "It must be noon somewhere in the country by now."

While I was getting the brew, he climbed the steps to the verandah which was shaded by a large canvas awning, and screened from the street by a row of thick boxwood. I seldom saw Gord Fleming except, like this, on the occasional Saturday morning. He was a psychiatrist and lived across the street with his wife and noisy family of five children.

"I really shouldn't be drinking this," he said, eyeing his bottle of beer.

"Why not?"

"It aggravates my gout."

"I thought that went out with Henry VIII. What is it exactly?"

"The major symptom is an inflamed and damned painful joint, most often in the big toe. That's where it gets me," he said. "Whenever I am at a medical convention, I always look up a gout man to see if they've come up with any new treatment."

"Have they?"

"Not really. It's caused by excess uric acid in the blood and the treatment is usually 'two aspirins, and see me in the morning'. Thanks for the beer. We're off to the farm before it gets too hot."

The Flemings had a small hobby farm near Kingsville which they used as a retreat from the hot city, and where they grew garden vegetables for themselves. As he walked back across the road, I reluctantly took up the handle or the mower to finish cutting the grass.

The very next Saturday morning began as a repeat of the week before. Gord came across the street, but this time he was limping. I stopped mowing as I watched his painful progress towards me.

"Your gout's acting up?" I speculated.

"No," he said off-handedly. "I had a biopsy taken from my hip yesterday and it's still sore."

"Oh!" I said, surprised. "What did they find?" "I've got leukemia," he said, tossing it off as if he were saying that he had just bought a new pair of shoes.

I was stunned and, for a moment, tongue-tied unable to respond. Finally I said. "What do you say to a psychiatrist who has just announced to you that he has leukemia? 'That's too bad' hardly seems adequate."

He shrugged without replying, but I sensed that he would like to talk, so I said, "let's sit down for a bit," and led the way to the shaded verandah. I didn't suggest a beer. Somehow, it didn't seem appropriate, and besides, I've always regarded alcohol in its various forms as a social drink for festive occasions, and always avoided it as an antidote for depressed feelings.

"What happens now?" I prompted.

"They haven't decided on the treatment yet. Leukemia takes so many forms. It can be acute and over in a short time, or chronic, lasting for years. They don't know yet where I stand."

"Will you be able to continue your practice?"

"I plan to, for as long as possible. You know I have two families. Julie is my second wife; the older three kids are hers and then we have the two young ones. Besides that, I have two grown boys from my first marriage who live with their mother. So you see, I have a lot of responsibility on my plate and have to focus on the practical aspects of the situation. I need to maximize my financial position in whatever time I have left."

"Isn't there any hope for a cure?"

"There's a small chance, but I have to plan for the worst, and that means cutting expenses and doing everything I can to leave both families in good shape. The immediate implication is that we will move to a less expensive house and sell the farm."

"Gord, it seems to me that you could do with some of your own medicine. You haven't mentioned yourself, only your families. You must be shattered."

He paused before answering. "You play the cards you are dealt," he said. "As a doctor, and especially as a psychiatrist, I've seen the whole spectrum from the best to the worst. I haven't had it too bad. Well, I had better get back."

As we got up from our chairs, I felt an urge to put my arms around him, but instead gripped his shoulder and said feebly, "Looks like another scorcher." He nodded in agreement, and we walked down the steps with my hand still on his shoulder.

As he limped back across the street, I picked up the handle of the mower and squeezed it with all my strength in an attempt to vent my frustration and sense of inadequacy. I felt like breaking something.

The lawn no longer seemed very important.

Pic of the Past

This photo was taken in 1923 at Alf Sisson's farm on Grass Lake, West Guilford. The little girl sticking her tongue out is Violet Sisson, who is now Violet

Hospital sojourn goes on

DOWN OUR ROAD
SHARON LYNCH

MARIAN AWOKED TO THE SENSATION of her arm being lifted. She opened her eyes to see a nurse preparing to take her blood pressure. Obviously she need not even be conscious in order to be pulled, poked and treated like an object. She was about to make a rather rude observation when the nurse noticed she was awake, and smiled.

This unexpected acknowledgement threw Marian off guard. Before she thought of what she was doing, she smiled in return. The nurse asked her how she had slept and listened sympathetically as Marian described her nightmare. Then she let Marian in on a secret. The nurse said she did not like staying in hospitals herself. She pointed out that it was a perfectly normal feeling and that she would personally do everything she could to make Marian's stay both as enjoyable and brief as possible. To emphasize the point, she gave Marian's arm a pat, as if to seal a promise.

As her straight uniformed back retreated out of the room, Marian felt better than she had since arriving the day before. She glanced over at the other bed. The curtains were pulled back to reveal a small white-haired head resting on double pillows. The bed's sheet was barely disturbed, indicating the occupant was thin and probably frail. The elderly woman belonging to the tiny frame was sleeping soundly, her mouth slightly open, her eyes sunk deep into her face.

It was just as well. Marian did not feel like making small talk. She knew very soon she would be wheeled out to the operating room and with that on her mind, she could think of nothing else to talk about. Shortly afterward, she was being pushed down hallways as ceiling tiles passed overhead like telephone poles outside a car window.

The next time she saw her room was following surgery. Her head felt thick and woolly inside and a slow ache spread up from her feet. The same friendly nurse arrived at her side soon afterward and gave her a pill for the discomfort. Marian fell back to sleep almost immediately.

The next time she awoke she felt better and realized she was hungry. As though reading her mind, a tray arrived with soup, jello and a pot of tea. The same nurse popped her head in a few minutes later and seeing Marian awake, walked over to the bed and handed her a thin little book. It was a collection of inspirational and motivational quotes. The nurse explained that she had one like it at home and found it lifted her spirits from time to time and thought Marian, being an obvious reader, might enjoy it.

Marian did indeed. It only took her an hour to get through it but there were several insightful passages and Marian was pleased for such a distraction. The elderly lady in the other bed was now awake and rather lively. She seemed less frail with her eyes open. Marian offered her the slim volume, which she happily walked over and took. For the next hour or so, she was silent as she also made short work of the book, cover to cover.

That book proved to be the best tonic for any hospital stay. For the next several hours Marian and the older woman lay in their beds and talked about the book. The white-haired lady picked out various quotations and then they each took turns pointing out different ways to interpret the words. The book had in fact been deceptively thin, each passage being layered with meanings.

Finally, after such intensive and introspective musings, both women lay back on their pillows,

B&B's are great!

B, I was so impressed and so very, very proud of all the effort and ambiance that they have created, that it will not surprise me to see Haliburton Highlands as a highlight for B & B guests from all over Ontario and abroad!

A special thank you to Connie Sims and Heather Alloway for their assistance in helping me arrange for this most enlightening and enjoyable day. Now all the real estate folk know what they are recommending when they suggest a B & B to customers who ask us for a place to stay. I think I'll sneak away myself for a secret B & B holiday in Haliburton Highlands.

Repairs appreciated

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the roads department of Dysart et al for the repairs to Green Lake Road which was in sore need of repair.

Our thanks go to Gary McDonald and Beau Bird and the crew that worked the road. They were courteous and considerate and once again I would like to thank them all for a job well executed. We think you are #1. Thanks.

Bye-bye to kindergarten

ANNECOTES
ANNE CREELMAN

THE SOCIAL EVENT of the season in Haliburton County took place on June 22 and 23 at Victoria Street School and was attended by the most important people in the village. I am, of course, not referring to a board meeting or hiring committee but the Kindergarten Farewell Tea Party of 1993-94. It was a resounding success and by far, one of the classiest acts I have seen in some time. I am not just saying that because my son happened to be one of the honorees. It was a lovely celebration of a year of hard work, determination and fun that was befitting a group of 5 and 6 year old kids.

We had all been invited to a Farewell Tea Party by the Kindergarten Classes and we were instructed to wear our very best hats. So at 12:45 parents, siblings, grandparents and an assortment of special people gathered outside the classes to say congratulations to the very same people we had seemingly just put on the bus for the first time. The event was hosted by the Queens of the Day, Mrs. Rosemary Malott and Mrs. Wilma Powers, both resplendent in their summer frocks and matching hats. They were indeed the picture of motherly pride as they smiled and paraded around the room welcoming everyone. Guests were served lemonade and cookies by very polite older students (grade 1 and 2) and the atmosphere was jovial to say the least. Special "Three Cheers Awards" were given to each student by their teacher to honour the special efforts they had put forth throughout the year. These consisted of a folder with a photo of the child and a description of their special talent and were distributed with very tight hugs from "Mrs. M. and Mrs. P.". Pictures were taken and smiles were plentiful. Parents who had never met but had heard much about each other finally got to shake hands. Grandparents who had come for the special event smiled indulgently at the offspring of their offspring who will, in their eyes, never do anything wrong. Even the one of the newest babies in Haliburton was shown around. It wasn't too overwhelming, it wasn't too emotional, it was just very nice.

It has been quite a year for us. I thought kindergarten would be a breeze for our more-than-able-son. Little did I know that a new baby sister, the death of a beloved uncle, nana and great-grandma and the general newness of going to school would take its toll. It wasn't the easy, playful start to school that I had envisioned. Instead it was fraught with anxiety, tears and sometimes fear. There were times when I thought "Oh how will we ever get through this year!". But as time wore on, Max became more confident, happy and excited to go to school. I attribute much of this to the wonderful family atmosphere at Victoria Street School, the friends he made and his very special teacher who was compassionate and loving. I would like to think we were a special case but I kind of think not. In my days of volunteering I noticed this to be the rule rather than the exception with the teachers at this school. Their caring and dedication go a long way to help students get a good, healthy start to what can often be a frightening and precedent setting beginning to their education. After 70 years, we are lucky to have such a wonderful school.

As I think back on the last year I smile. I think of cupcakes at Halloween, Stars of the Day, parents smiling as little voices sing "Victoria Street is really neat!", dinosaurs and robots, a museum dig to rival the ROM and a certain hooded rat. I think of bruised knees and feelings, the severity of telling a fib and the sadness of a friend moving away. I think of a day almost six years ago when a baby boy arrived and changed our lives. I think of his grade 12 graduation and wonder what he'll be like then. Wow! For now, I'll look out the driveway to see him give his sisters a hard time, smile to myself and say, "Way to go, chum!" Congratulations to one and all!

The girls volleyball team was all smiles as they came forward to receive their tabs

J.D.H. ES 's boys volley ball team turned in a fine performance this year

The grade 7&8 intramural volleyball team had a lot of fun during breaks between class

J.D. Hodgson Public School held a sports awards assembly recently to honor many of the students and staff involved in extra-curricular activities. The assembly was chaired by Roy Hoare and closing remarks were made by McKay Brydon. Both Mr. Hoare and Mr. Brydon thanked the students and staff extensively, saying that their input is what makes school activities great -- they certainly reaped the rewards from taking part in this year's activities.

The grade 3&4 beach-ball volleyball players got their first taste of intramural sports, and loved every minute of it!

The J.D.H. ES official referees dedicated much of their time to make sure all the games were officiated fairly and with sportsmanship

Cottagers are important to municipalities

Anson, Hindon and Minden councillor tells Horseshoe Lake Property Owners Association to "give them a jolt," to remind them that cottagers' concerns should be given an attentive ear, at its annual meeting

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

The following are brief reports of items discussed at the June 25 annual general meeting of the Horseshoe Lake Property Owners Association, held at the Minden White Water Preserve with about 70 people in attendance.

Opening remarks

President Vern Gilbert welcomed everybody, noting the absence, however, of the Anson, Hindon and Minden board of education trustees. For the second year in a row, none of them responded to the invitation to the meeting, although Wally Bunn and Brian Kernohan did send regrets. Gilbert wasn't pleased with this lack of interest. "People in elected positions owe it to the people to come and show themselves publicly."

His tone was much more friendly when it came to introducing AHM council members, all of whom were present. Council "has done an outstanding job, especially in the pocket book department," he said. He noted that this is an election year, and the association will once again get involved in the process.

Vote for me...

Speaking of the November elections, the AHM council members all made a campaign pitch. Reeve Bern Berry noted council's achievements in the nine years he's been on board. It's built up reserves, controlled expenditures and improved infrastructure. Under his reeveship, he's had a "positive, open door approach creating an air of co-operation."

Because of building up the municipality's reserves, AHM is able to take advantage of the federal/provincial infrastructure program without increasing taxes. (Budget increases for the past three years have been 2%, 0.9% and 0%.) Monies will be used to build an addition on to the municipal office, thereby ensuring that court services will still be offered in Minden. The new space will also provide a less expensive alternative for organizations wishing to hold meetings. Another project is to further improve water supplies, making Minden the only village in the county with sufficient water and sewer capacity for development, Berry said.

Deputy-reeve Lewis Stevens said councillors now realize the important role cottagers play at the grassroots level. "You come up here to live the lifestyle we all want to live and you bring (lake concerns) to our attention... Make sure we're all aware that we should be listening to you. By all means, give us a jolt, I'm sure we'll be listening."

Councillor Jeanne Anthon has announced that she's running for reeve. One of her main reasons is a desire to be on county council. People have told her "they want someone in there who appears to them as progressive and positive." With her past experience as president of the 50,000-member Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Associations, she won't find the pressures of county council an obstacle, she said.

Councillor Gerald Rome says his time on council has been very enjoyable and with the support of his wife, Olga, he plans to run for councillor again.

Councillor Grant Plooard says the problem with being the last speaker is that everyone else has already boasted about council's achievements. He added that with the infrastructure monies, Duck Lake Road will be hard-topped. Reporting on the fire department, he says it has just purchased a new pumper tanker and tenders are out for a new fire truck, with no need to increase taxes.

In the last election, there was a large turnout of Horseshoe Lake cottagers. In November, "I hope you don't become complacent and I hope you all come out and vote," Plooard said.

Gilbert echoed this. "One in every three years is not a big deal. You've got a big investment here and you've got to know who's doing what with your money."

An additional advanced poll has been scheduled for October 29 and Gilbert will tell the municipality to expect a large turnout to make sure that polls run quickly and smoothly.

Tune us in

Ninety-seven percent of Ontario residents can watch TVOntario. The three percent who can't live primarily in Haliburton County. Not only does TVO highlight some of the most informative and interesting television shows, but it is supported by tax dollars — tax dollars which Highlands residents pay but do not benefit from. A committee is trying to convince the province to install a transmitter in the Highlands at a cost of $1-to $2-million and Mike Shirley was at the meeting to garner the association's support. People were urged to sign a petition and write letters to the government, urging it to address the poor reception in the Highlands. (The hills that give the Highlands its name also make it difficult for television signals to travel.) There was general support among association members.

Lake quality

The clarity of water in Horseshoe Lake has remained fairly consistent over the past few years, reported Bill Daniels. The lake is moderately enriched and has moderate algae growth. "The lake is in a stable condition and is one of the better small lakes."

He was praised for the 13 years he has spent gathering lake samples and sending them to the appropriate ministries for evaluation, as well his efforts recording lake clarity.

Giving notice

To the audible consternation of members, Vern Gilbert announced that this is the last year he'll be association president. "Associations really need to renew themselves from time to time," he said. "The time has come to stir things up."

Gilbert has been president for 11 years and in the past year, he and his wife Eleanor have travelled extensively. (The newsletter jokingly reported that in order to include the president, the last executive meeting was held in Singapore, courtesy of the association.)

Treasurer Pauline Plooard has also said that because of professional commitments, this will be her last year on the executive as well.

Board member Bev Kinsman is stepping down because she and her family are moving to Boshkung Lake, where they will operate Kinsman Cottagers. Gilbert wished Bev and Rick Kinsman success in their venture.

Other association members are urged to get involved with the board.

Room for rent?

On the weekend of August 4, 5 and 6, 1995, the White Water Preserve will play host to an international canoe and kayak race. About 130 competitors are expected from across the world and they'll need someplace to stay. The race is the final one in a five-stop circuit so participation is expected to be high. Cottagers and residents were asked to keep this in mind if they had an extra bedroom or two.

Help!

Organizers are needed for the fishing derby and the golf tournament. Unless someone steps forward for the derby, the popular event won't be held this year. Someone has already volunteered to weigh the fish and two families have volunteered use of their property.

The tournament is on August 20 and includes a lunch at the Blairhampton Golf Course. Relations between golf course owner Doug Prozak and the association have improved in the year or two after the association successfully objected to a zoning proposal at the Ontario Municipal Board.

OMB leftovers

Speaking of the OMB hearing, the association has $3,700 left over in its fund to pay for the legal challenge. Minden lawyer David Shapiera had given them a very good rate and now the association must decide how to get rid of the money that was raised. Members will be given a year to make suggestions about possible charity donations. At the meeting, someone suggested that some of the money be put in a reserve fund to pay for any future emergencies.

Guest speaker

Bob Robbins of the Investors Group in Peterborough spoke on the impact of the new Capital Gains laws. For more information, please see Jeanne Anthon's column in an upcoming edition of County Life.

PineStone chefs were on hand at the opening of the expanded Highland Garden Produce Fruit Market in Haliburton on Tuesday. Large crowds were happy to share in the barbecued fruit and vegetables in celebration of the larger store and delivery space

AHM Reeve objects to province's "downloading"

by WENDY BIRD
Staff Reporter

The following are brief reports from the meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden council held June 23.

New bowling alley

Ray and Darryl Moore of Westside Jug City in Minden have asked council to approve, in principle, to upgrade the Jug City property from C3 zoning to C1 zoning, which is required to legally permit a bowling alley on the lower level of the building. The pair are hoping to open the alley for the September bowling season.

Council did not have any objections to the proposal. However, the zoning change must be looked at by the townships' planning advisory committee, which is scheduled to meet July 7. After the meeting a public meeting will be held for anyone who objects to this proposed zoning change.

The new building under construction on the Westside Jug City property has a 6,000 square foot lower level, which is suitable for the proposed eight-lane bowling alley. The Moores plan to use the second storey for apartments, when time and money comes available.

The site plan for the area will provide 77 parking spaces, which the Moores say will more than accommodate the parking needs for the stores, bowling alley and apartments in the building.

Once the rezoning is approved the bowling alley will take about six weeks to complete, including the installation of lanes and equipment.

Seeking solutions

Further to her last appearance at AHM council, Linda Beachli, a broker with RE/MAX Haliburton Highlands Realty Ltd., wrote a letter to council stating that she would like to make the general public more aware of the businesses in the Heritage Plaza in Minden. At the last meeting, Councillor Jean Anthon suggested that a finger-board sign might be appropriate for that area. However, it turns out that it is not an ideal solution from council's standpoint. Ms. Beachli will likely have to use a roof sign in order to advertise her business's location, pending the approval of the Ministry of Transportation and the municipality. AHM's by-law officer said that the roof sign is in accordance with the municipality's by-laws pertaining to signs.

Downloading!

This much-favored word of Reeve Bern Berry was on the tip of his tongue as he and council leafed through a press release issued by the Association of Municipalities of Ontario (AMO) concerning the fact that the province will charge municipalities for supplementary property assessments. Property assessments are required to determine how much property tax a landowner must pay.

"This is just another fancy maneuver by the province to do some more downloading on municipalities," Reeve Berry said.

He and the rest of council resolved to send a letter to the province "strongly objecting" to this recent move.

As reported in last week's issue of The Echo, each supplementary property assessment which requires a field inspection will cost the municipality $120. Assessments which may be completed without an inspection will cost $50 each. Municipalities will only pay if their total annual bill for all supplementary assessments performed is greater than $3,000, and will not pay for the first $3,000 of work performed.

Based on 1993 supplementary assessments, this move by the government will cost AHM $12,500 per year.

Only the municipality will be charged this extra; not the school board, which directly benefits from property tax collection. Minister of Finance Floyd Laughren told AMO that current legislation does not allow municipalities to charge school boards for their portion of the service; however, he said that such a legislation will be introduced in the future. But the bottom line is that the province is "not willing to wait to start collecting the fees (from municipalities) until the legislation could be passed." Bills will be issued to municipalities by the Province in January of each year, following the year in which the costs were incurred.

Info on recycling

AHM's environment advisory committee will be handing out a two-page information flyer at the Scotch Line landfill site in July for eligible landfill site users. Roads department supervisor

Clayton Cameron informed the committee that the recycling bins have been changed from two 20 yard bins, to one 40 yard bin that deals with all the recyclables. The bin comes already marked as to sorting procedures, so no extra signs for the site are required. The only item not accepted at the bin is cardboard, which fills the bin too quickly. The committee will produce 1,000 copies of the information flyer, which will hopefully answer some of the landfill site users' questions.

Helping HAVE

Fred Elson, chairman of Help A Village Effort (HAVE) wrote to council in thanks for renting the group two portable toilets which were used during the Walk for Water fund-raiser. The money raised from the event goes to well digs in India and Africa.

The organization would like to rent the portable toilets again next year. However, council recently decided that the use of portable toilets will only be granted to organizations using them within the municipal boundaries.

"We would like to make the point that the Walk for Water is a significant local event, and that though the village of Haliburton is our starting point, the people who are involved are from many areas, and many who work for the event are from Minden," Elson wrote.

"We would like to think that you would... help a positive inter-community effort by being prepared to rent us the portable toilets for future walks... It would be very difficult for us to find an alternative source for the facilities."

Apparently, Dysart et al does not have portable toilet rentals, and AHM took the matter under consideration.

New staff

AHM resolved to hire a part time office clerk, Sherry Gilbert, for the duration of a five-month contract. She will also help out in the planning department's office duties.

Retiring

AHM deputy fire chief Daniel McDuff has decided to retire from that post, but he plans to stay on as a regular fire fighter. Council accepted his resignation and expressed its thanks for all his hard work as deputy fire chief.

Home is where the heart is

West Guilford family puts their life back together after losing home to fire

by SUE BACHNER
Staff Reporter

Nineteen ninety-four has been the year for new beginnings for the Schmid family.

They are six weeks away from moving into a brand new home on the same property where their house burnt down on January 10. A wood stove set fire to their renovated home on Green Lake Road in West Guilford, destroying it and nearly everything that was inside.

It was a shock at the time, especially since it happened almost exactly eight years after their first fire. (That time, the fire only resulted in minor damage).

Back in January, as they stood back and stared at the burnt frame, the Schmidts were reminded of just exactly what the word "home" represents.

It is the place where they sleep — where would they go now?

It holds the warmth and memories that a family shares under its roof — how could they ever get their home back?

It showed eight years of hard work in renovations, and was full of beautifully restored antiques. Closets full of clothes, a room full of their 3-year-old son Lane's toys — all gone.

"It's so humbling it's almost embarrassing," Elaine Schmid says now with a laugh. Over the months that followed their misfortune, she and her husband George have been showered with support from friends and family.

They have been living temporarily three houses down the road, renting from a friend who is currently in Ukraine. Friends have given them clothes, money, and new toys for Lane.

"It's kind of a different feeling," she says, "not owning anything."

For the first few weeks that followed, Lane was quite upset about the loss of his toys. "He just kept telling everyone, 'My toys are all gone.'" But he adjusted phenomenally as the weeks passed and he was presented with more and more new toys. And he still has a few stuffed animals that his mom has doctored back to life.

The dining room, where the Schmidts kept most of their antiques, was virtually untouched, but smoke damage meant that some antique chairs had to be recovered. Everything is almost back to normal.

The Schmidts designed their new home to be much like the one they lost, inside at least. Outside, the impressive four-column front of the house looks nothing like the pretty farmhouse with the white trim on its many balconies, but just as impressive.

Inside the rooms are the same size, same layout, and when they're in the decorating stage, they will even use the same color scheme. But one thing is definitely not going to be reintroduced to their new home — a wood stove.

Friends and family are still giving their support. On Saturday, they held a shower at the West Guilford Community Centre. Mrs. Schmid says she told everyone not to bring anything for them, but they didn't listen.

Debbie Lamb, a close friend of Elaine's, has also lived through a

George, Elaine and Lane Schmid enjoy an evening in their temporary home. They've discovered that a home with love makes a true family house fire this year. A shower was held for her and her family months ago, and now she thought it was the Schmidts' turn.

It was Thanksgiving weekend, when Mrs. Lamb, her husband Bob and their 3-year-old daughter Ashley were having the festive meal at a family member's house. During the dinner, their house burned down. Luckily the dog was put outside for the night, because everything inside the house was destroyed. The cause is thought to have been a faulty light fixture.

"Everything was gone...Even our family Bible and pictures..." says Debbie.

Family members pitched in to locate some copies of these photos, but one of their favorites, a wedding photo, had no copies. "We were standing on the bridge at the park and my dress flew up...It described us perfectly — we're not picture perfect."

The Lambs are happy in their new home, which they moved into in February, but it wasn't until the first spring cleaning recently that it felt like it actually belonged to them. "Home," according to Mrs. Lamb, is where the family's dirt is.

But if any good can come out of a house fire, she has found it. "I think there are hidden blessings...When you rebuild your house you can rebuild your lives too."

Every Thursday Russell Snoddon (right) and his brother Christopher come to visit Alice Todd, of "Toddie" for tea at Hyland Crest. This time Russell's sister Tiffany joined them for a cup of tea, goodies, laughter and fun.

Tea for three

by WENDY BIRD
Staff Reporter

RUSSELL AND CHRISTOPHER Snoddon have a special friend. And they love to join her for tea.

Alice Todd, a resident at Hyland Crest seniors residence, is that special friend. She and the Snoddon brothers meet every Thursday at 2 p.m. for their afternoon ritual, and have been doing so for the past three years.

Both Christopher and Russell are students of the Archie Stouffer Elementary School's modified educational program. Both have difficulty with learning skills; however, that has not stopped them from getting the most out of their visits with Mrs. Todd, or "Toddie," as Russell calls her (he had trouble saying "Mrs.").

Linda Brandon, the boys' teacher, says that Mrs. Todd makes an important and positive difference in their lives.

"The true impact of her contribution is immeasurable," she says.

"For the past three years, Mrs. Todd has meaningfully, productively and caringly given of herself. Knowingly or not, Mrs. Todd opened the door to a whole new world of education, enjoyment, adventure and happiness."

In addition to socializing while having tea at Hyland Crest, the boys read stories they have learned to "Toddie." Sometimes they bring her flowers, or gifts. And she returns the courtesy with hand-knitted items, goodies, or a warm hug.

"She reflects and illuminates the very essence of what education is about," Ms. Brandon explained.

"She has provided Russell and Christopher with the opportunity to better reach their full intellectual, social, physical, moral and emotional potential. Mrs. Todd continues to nurture and encourage the boys to have respect for themselves, and the community."

Ms. Brandon says that through the boys' interactions with "Toddie," they are becoming more aware and responsive to the needs and feelings of others.

"Russell's and Christopher's basic life skills literacy program has been enriched because of Alice Todd," she says. "She appreciates their individual differences and truly encourages both boys to be the very best they can."

Sometimes other students from ASES come to Hyland Crest for tea, and learn many stories and lessons from the seniors who await them.

"This kind of holistic approach to education exemplifies integration at its best," Ms. Brandon explained.

"Appreciation should also be extended to Mrs. Bloomfield, Mrs. Hartwick, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Marks-O'Sullivan, Mr. Thompson, Mrs. Davis, Mr. Reid, Mr. Brydon, Mr. Forgrave, and Mr. Pawluch, who, along with Hyland Crest, and Linda and Brian Snoddon (the boys' parents) have provided their continued support of this wonderful learning experience."

"But without 'Toddie', it just wouldn't be the same... she makes an exceptional difference."

At the Gooderham June Bug Horseshoe tournament, sponsored by Osaca Log Homes, the participants had great fun and exercise competing for a great line-up of trophies. Tournament organizer Ron Barr and Osaca Log Homes owner Bill Piel (above) discuss the fine details before the tournament starts, and Rick Howe of Haliburton (right) gets into the swing of things.

Ron Barr and Melvyn Mintz came first, while Wayne Parnell and Bill Piel came second.

Teachers bid adieu to HHSS and career

by KEITH MCKELVEY
HHSS Co-op Student

PEOPLE SAY THAT all good things do come to an end. That's the way it went this year - the end of school for students and staff at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. The saying also really applies to two teachers, who have spent much of their lives working at the school. This year, John Stouffer, and Marilyn Kuno are retiring from teaching.

Mr. Stouffer has taught since 1960, teaching in Millbrook for four years, then moving to Cedarbrae, Scarborough, and he says that's moving from one of the smallest schools in the province to one of the biggest. In that time, he got married, and then he moved to Ghana, in West Africa to teach for three years. He then moved back to Haliburton (back, because he was born and raised in Minden) and has taught at HHSS since 1970.

Mr. Stouffer says that his retirement is not so much an end to his career as it is a change, because there are many other things to do. He says that with his extra time in the future he would like to be able to do some repairs around his house, and on weekends, he will have some extra time, because there won't be any tests to mark, and he will probably do some skiing.

One of the first things on his agenda is to build himself a telescope, and if there is anyone interested in joining him, he would be happy if they would contact him.

Mr. Stouffer says that he will probably miss the school. "You look back on what you have done and you have good memories from teaching here..."

"Teaching is something I like to do, and I think most teachers like to do."

But he says like any job, there are sometimes problems, but if you live with any person who is employed, you'll probably hear them griping from time to time. He says that he did his share of griping over the years.

"The process of helping people learn is very satisfying, with some disappointments" says Mr. Stouffer. He also says that the process of being in a classroom and "teaching" is most appealing to most teachers.

Mr. Stouffer says that over the years he has met a lot of very nice people, and living in the Minden - Haliburton area has been a real treat over the years, and he's really looking forward to spending the rest of his life here.

Mrs. Kuno started teaching at Cardiff Elementary School, where she taught for three years. She got a teaching job at HHSS in 1960, as a Home Economics teacher. She is now teaching in the Special Education Department at the high school. She had to resign for four years since she started, because she had to take time off to have her children, and there wasn't such a thing as maternity leave.

Mrs. Kuno says that right now, she doesn't feel any different because she has retired. She says that she won't really notice a difference until the end of August. She says it's kind of sad, and it's hard to picture not coming back to teach. However, "it's exciting thinking of what I'll do next."

"I love teaching" says Mrs. Kuno. "I like seeing kids be successful."

She says that working one on one with a student is more satisfying than working with a group of students, "because you know you're giving them what they're asking for." She also says, with one person, you're more aware of what they need. She says that the most rewarding thing about teaching is seeing students accomplish things, seeing them go on after high school.

Mrs. Kuno says that she really likes to live close to where she works. "It's a beautiful setting, I can look out the window, and see the lake and trees." She says that in the future, she would really like to do some travelling with her husband, to the East coast, the West coast, and go South.

"You look back on what you have done and you have good memories from teaching here," agree Marilyn Kuno and John Stouffer, who don't have to return to HHSS in September. But they're both sure they'll be just as busy as retirees as they were as teachers

This week EYC students monitor Dysart water pollution

by SUE BACHNER
Staff Reporter

This is the first time the municipality of Dysart et al has received provincial funding to hire five students for a summer Environmental Youth Corps program, and if all goes well, it might not be the last.

Four environmentalists — all post-secondary students — will travel by boat in pairs along the shores of Kashagawigamog, Head and Grass Lakes, inspecting plumbing systems to make sure no pollutants are leaking into the lake.

Environmentalists are local youths Krista Mitchell, Troy Jackson, Tania Rowden and Mark Klages. Lianne Scheffee, their supervisor, has the title project co-ordinator, which gives her such duties as scheduling, proof-reading reports and calling the District Health Unit in cases of pollution. Dysart clerk Donna McCallum keeps record of these reports for the municipality.

There are diverse backgrounds and levels of expertise among them. Scheffee is entering her fourth-year at Wilfrid Laurier University studying Business Administration. She feels the job will give her some excellent management experience.

EYC TEAM: Mark Klages (left), Troy Jackson, Tania Rowden, Krista Mitchell and Lianne Scheffee are Dysart et al's Environmental Youth Corps employees.

Mitchell, a fourth year student at University of Waterloo, completed the Environmental Assessment certificate program and is continuing in Environmental Economics. Jackson is just approaching his post-secondary career at University of Western Ontario as an Environmental Science major. Tania Rowden is a second-year Law and Security student at Humber College and Mark Klages, also at Humber, is studying his second year of Chemistry in the fall.

After three days of training from environmental officer Mark Saigeon, the team knows all about the different classes of systems, what to look for in an inspection, how to answer cottagers' questions and how to fill out inspection reports.

It feels good to be doing something that could make a difference, says Mitchell. "It doesn't seem like senseless data collecting...It feels like something will actually be done with it." She also finds the public interaction and data control experience useful at this stage in her career.

Scheffee is has been pleased at the positive reception they've had from cottagers so far. "They're co-operative and supportive. No one has kicked us off their property yet."

The Kashagawigamog Cottagers' Organization has even invited them to a meeting to inform its members of the program.

They have all summer until the end of August to do all the inspections along the chain of Dysart Lakes, but if they finish early, they will move on to Drag Lake.

Glamorgan pauses over infrastructure program

by SUE BACHNER
Staff Reporter

The following are brief reports of items discussed at Tuesday night's meeting of Glamorgan Council, with all members present.

Dishwasher talk

Architect Alan Wilcox showed council layout drawings of a new kitchen in the community centre, which opened a lengthy debate about dishwashers.

Reeve Bev MacDuff and Councillor Lorrie Saville went through company brochures that displayed under-the-counter and conveyor-type models. Top considerations for MacDuff were the speed and volume it can handle, user friendliness, and the space it occupies.

But Saville felt the less money council spends on such an item, the better. "We serve six to 10 dinners per year for no more than 200 people," which is why she felt a $10,000 dishwasher was far too extravagant for the community's purpose. "We're not the Royal York...We're a little community."

After an hour of discussion, Councillor Bill Challis was visibly tired of the topic. "We have a building to build and if it's going to take as long to pick a dishwasher as it takes to build..."

For Wilcox's purposes, it is a waste of time discussing the economics of the decision. "We're now at the stage of what fits and what works," he said. Once council decides how many plates need to be cleaned and how fast it needs to be done, then his architectural plan will be ready for an economic debate.

Keeping on track

The $127,000 improvements project is part of the federal-provincial infrastructure program, which is still subject to approval. After Saville's warnings to proceed with caution, Wilcox said no matter how insecure this funding is so far, council's reservations will put the project at a standstill. "The project is designed to get jobs on fast track now. Don't work against that principle or you're working against the whole purpose of the project."

Too many break-ins

Six break-ins have occurred since last month's Glamorgan Police Support Association meeting, and chairman Paul Drake felt this points to the need for greater organization and possibly the purchase of a security system.

The association is made up of community volunteers who keep a watchful eye on the community, and help OPP officers identify alleged intruders.

Last year's break-in count for the County of Haliburton was 630, which has imposed considerable loss for the township, said Drake. He would like to expand the association, and possibly set up a Neighborhood Watch program similar to one that was recently established in Wilberforce. This is something he will look into later, as he has other priorities — one of which is to convince council to install a security alarm system in the municipal office building.

He informed council members of a few systems, which would range in cost from $400 for a basic one to $1,500 plus for a top-of-the-line system.

As owner of Boss Security, he said he would hope to sell council one of his products, but jokingly added, "I don't think there is a conflict of interest there."

Reeve MacDuff said a security alarm system will be a must-if break-ins persist, and told Drake council will be in touch with him after they have had a chance to discuss the idea.

Glamorgan council meets again Tuesday, July 6 at 7 p.m.

The Haliburton Highlands Secondary School held a co-op banquet at the Haliburton Legion to celebrate the past year of co-operation between local businesses and students. Awards were presented to, from left: Back row: Christine Hardy, best overall performance; Norm Rainey, most improved; Jennifer Oimment, top mark of 92% and best overall performance; Jamie Cowen, most improved; Jason Bellehumeur, perfect attendance; and Greg Sharp, perfect attendance. FOR PETE'S SAKE, it's not Ringo. Haliburton village's Northwood Inn played host to the original Beatles' drummer — Pete Best — this past weekend. And for those who didn't go, they certainly missed a show filled with hard-edged rock that really got people's feet going.

This is the second sojourn on an eight-stop Canadian tour for The Pete Best Band, who will play in popular nightclubs in Niagara Falls, London, Ottawa, and Montreal. The Liverpool, England group will also play in Kanata during the city's Canada Day festivities.

By comparison, the crowd at the Northwood Inn was considerably smaller than the first gig Pete Best played in Toronto on his first-ever Canadian tour. They played at Toronto's Spectrum Club for a group of about 450 people. However, both the Northwood's and the Spectrum's patrons who attended the Pete Best gig most certainly shared the same thought: what's he all about?

The band plays familiar Beatles tunes like "Saw Her Standing There," "Love Me Do," and "Lucy in the Sky With Diamonds," along with original songs from their album "Live at the Adelphi." But the band's Beatles-based repertoire doesn't necessarily mean Pete Best is still longing for something he unfortunately didn't become: a much famed Beatle.

It was only six days after Best was fired from The Beatles, on Aug. 16, 1962, that the band made its first television appearance. He missed fame by only a few days.

Pete Best told The Echo during a rainy Friday interview that it's inevitable for him not to avoid the "ex-Beatle" question he's so often asked by people.

"It's become a natural hook to hang my hat on . . . it creates interest in what I'm doing now," he explained, taking a swig of beer.

"But hopefully that will be history one day."

There is no doubt that Pete Best feels some sort of pang in his chest when he thinks about what could have been. He's trying to re-kickstart his musical career after spending most of his working career as a civil servant, while The Beatles are now resting on the financially-sound laurels of their fast and furious accomplishments.

Best spent two years in with The Beatles before he was canned from the act. The reason? Some say it was his moodiness, and reluctance to cut his hair into the Beatles' famous bob. Some say it was the jealousy of Paul McCartney, who couldn't stand to have another member in the band compete on the grounds of good looks. Some say it was Best's lack of talent, of which he says there is no evidence.

All that is concrete, however, is that Best spent two years with a popular band that enjoyed a fanatical following in both Liverpool and Hamburg, where they performed hundreds of shows.

"I suppose those days were rough," Best says. "In retrospect, we didn't realize it then . . . we were just having a good time. We played long

Ex-Beatle drummer

Ex-Beatle Pete Best (front, centre) and the rest of his band, Roag Best, Andy Bryan, Andy Kirk, Paul Davis, and Vince Hagen, came to Haliburton's Northwood Inn recently for a once-only riveting rock performance which included a great repertoire of Beatles songs.

hours and during the week we played six hours a night. On Saturdays it was a nine-hour gig. The band usually didn't get a break during the night, so if we got a night off we would go and watch another band and get up on stage to give them a break."

After his surprising dismissal from The Beatles, Best went into a musical recluse, spending more time with his wife Kathy and two daughters Beba and Bonita.

"I decided to spend more time with my family and to lead a more normal life," he says. He's still married to Kathy and enjoys family life, an accomplishment not to be sullied in the light of what could have been.

However, the call of the musical wild brought forth new life into the drumming veins of Pete Best, and after 20 years off the circuit, he dove back in.

"I was asked to play at the 1988 Beatle convention and that's when it all got started," he explained with a laugh. "So I figured I just couldn't leave it at that!"

Since that first gig in 1988, Best has had plenty of good musical reviews, attesting to the fact that he does indeed have talent.

"The doors are opening for us now," Best said. "It's really exciting and interesting for us all."

Best is now surrounded with a relatively young band, pumped with tons of energy, including his younger brother Roag who also plays the drums. This double-drum-set hearty beat definitely adds to the band's firm-edged style of music.

The Pete Best Band was formed in 1989 and Best says he was surprised at how well the young players picked up the 60s and 70s based repertoire.

"They just blew me away," Best said. "At first I thought it would take some time for them to fit in, but I was wrong, they captured the musical style immediately."

The two-drum lineup is augmented with the band's lead guitar player Vince Hagen, keyboard player Paul Davis, bassist Andy Kirk, and vocalist Andy Bryan.

Best says he's not certain of what the future will bring him and his band. When they arrive back in England they'll be working on a second album, as well as doing a film documentary about their work, or more importantly, their struggle to the top of the music industry.

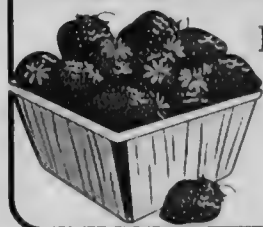

"I'd like to see the kids get something from it and get some kind of success through their work," he says, gesturing to the players fiddling with their instruments on the Northwood Inn stage.

"Show business is funny though . . ." His voice trails off from there.

Funny indeed.

One man's trash is Lutterworth's treasure

by WENDY BIRD
Staff Reporter

Although it's not a new idea, Lutterworth council recently decided to approve the sale of usable article which have been discarded at the municipality's landfill sites.

And landfill site supervisor

Kevin Hill thinks the idea's time has come.

"This is a great way to save a little bit for the environment and the economy," he says. "Especially during these hard economic times it's nice to be able to offer something to people that will be a little easier on their pocketbook."

Landfill attendants at the Little

Gull and Iron Mine sites will set aside articles that they think will be usable. A sign will be placed by the articles stating: "Sales table - make an offer - all sales final - no guarantees."

The public is not allowed to climb through the landfill pile and pull out items, but instead, should make an offer on the selected items during business hours. The Little Gull site is open Wednesdays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m., Sundays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The Iron Mine site is open Thursday and Fridays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturdays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Moneys collected from the venture will go towards offsetting landfill operation costs. Hill says that the quality of items which can be pulled from the sites is generally good.

"I've taken some bikes home myself, repainted them and fixed them up and they're perfectly good," he said, adding that he's often surprised by newness of articles which are often thrown away.

But the larger issue here is that by prolonging the usable life of some of these articles will ultimately preserve the life of our landfill sites. As it stands, most items thrown away are crushed and then buried. Items such as screen doors, storm windows, bicycles and appliances can often be cleaned, repaired and reused.

"I just don't understand how people can throw some of this stuff away," Hill said.

Landfill site operators will take any kind of donation for the items which will be displayed, "flea market" style, near the edge of the landfill site. The signs will be up before July 1.

Hill says he can't predict just how much the municipality will gain by collecting donations for reusable items, but he says that he knows the venture will save other people money, all while helping the longevity of the landfill sites. Lutterworth council plans to review this project at the end of October 1994.

exhausted. It was again nighttime. Marian doubted that she would have another restless night like the previous one. She was fatigued in both body and mind and drifted off with no trouble. The silence from her new-found friend had indicated a similar state.

It was hours later when Marian opened her eyes. She did not know what had made her wake but she felt rested and completely alert. Her watch told her it was three in the morning. She heard the bedsheets rustle next to her and in a low voice, asked the elderly lady if she was awake. An answer came in the affirmative.

For a few minutes the two of them lay in silence, each contemplating the night sounds of a big city hospital and the sensations coursing through their own bodies. Then Marian asked the other what her favourite part of the little book had been. The woman replied it was the section dealing with death. Marian agreed it was probably the most thought-provoking passage. They lay talking in soft voices in the dark, their private fears and longings spoken to each other as though they had been friends all their lives.

The next day the white-haired lady was leaving to go home. She gave Marian a gentle hug. Marian gave her the thin book to keep. She had made this hospital stay one Marian would always remember with pleasure.

Bright future ahead as Grade 8 grads move on

JDHES principal acknowledges all the hard work that carried them there

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

IT WAS AN EVENING of sadness and excited anticipation — sad that their days at J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School were over, and yet excited about their upcoming years at the high school.

For many of the blue-gowned students, Friday night's Grade 8 graduation was a culmination of nine years of being together. Many of the students went to kindergarten together, and can remember their first days at JDHES in Grade 3. They've gone from being at the bottom of the totem pole, to the top, and next year they must forfeit their lofty position for the chance to begin the next phase of their education. But before they moved on, it was time for staff and parents to acknowledge all the hard work that got them to this special evening.

On graduation night, every principal's mind "is flooded with warm, friendly thoughts," said Principal McKay Brydon in his opening remarks. "This has been an exemplary class — kind, warm and receptive."

Later in the evening, as the ceremony came to a close, he told them how proud everyone was and "how much we look forward to the things you'll do in the future."

Matthew Burk and Freya Lilius captured those hopes for the future in their joint valedictory address. They highlighted all the things which made their years at JDHES so special, and yet couldn't hide their excitement that in September, they will continue their journey at the high school. (Their speech is re-printed in this week's Echo.)

Teachers had a difficult task in choosing the recipients for the four special awards for Grade 8 students. But again this year, their choices also seemed to reflect the wishes of the students themselves.

Roy Scott presented the Special Distinction Award, sponsored by the Ontario Public School Teachers Federation. Before he made his presentation, he congratulated all of the students for their efforts. They may be excited about moving on, but "as teachers we stay here and you leave us memories, many good ones."

The Special Distinction Award recipient must achieve honours and show respect and positive encouragement to fellow students. The person must be involved in school activities, have good attendance and demonstrate leadership. This year, the recipient is Matthew Burk, the son of Jim and Glenda Burk.

The Leadership Award is sponsored by the Federation of Women Teachers, and was presented by Lorry Perry. The award is open to any student who demonstrates positive leadership and good citizenship. This year's recipient, Freya Lilius, "is polite, courteous and prompt." From the beginning of her school days, she had much to offer, and her involvement has grown over the years. Freya is the daughter of Eric Lilius and Claire Sylvan.

The Citizenship Award is in honour of Doug Devolin, who was the school's first principal, and who retired last year. Mr. Devolin presented the award, which is open to all students. "Effort is the key word — what has this student given to the school." This year's recipient, Cheryl Moseley, is "pleasant, helpful and goes well beyond what's asked." Cheryl is the daughter of Kevin and Linda Moseley.

Friendships will be cherished forever

by FREYA LILIUS & MATTHEW BURK
Grade 8 Valedictorians

WE WOULD LIKE to welcome everyone to our graduation assembly. We feel honoured to have been chosen to represent the Grade 8 student body. It is our wish that the words we speak will accurately describe the feelings and thoughts of our fellow students.

Life may be compared to a highway. Even though we have now completed the first nine years of our education, we realize that life's journey has only begun. Now as we move on and away from this old comfortable school and on to the new unknown, we have to remember how we got here and the many people who have helped us along the way.

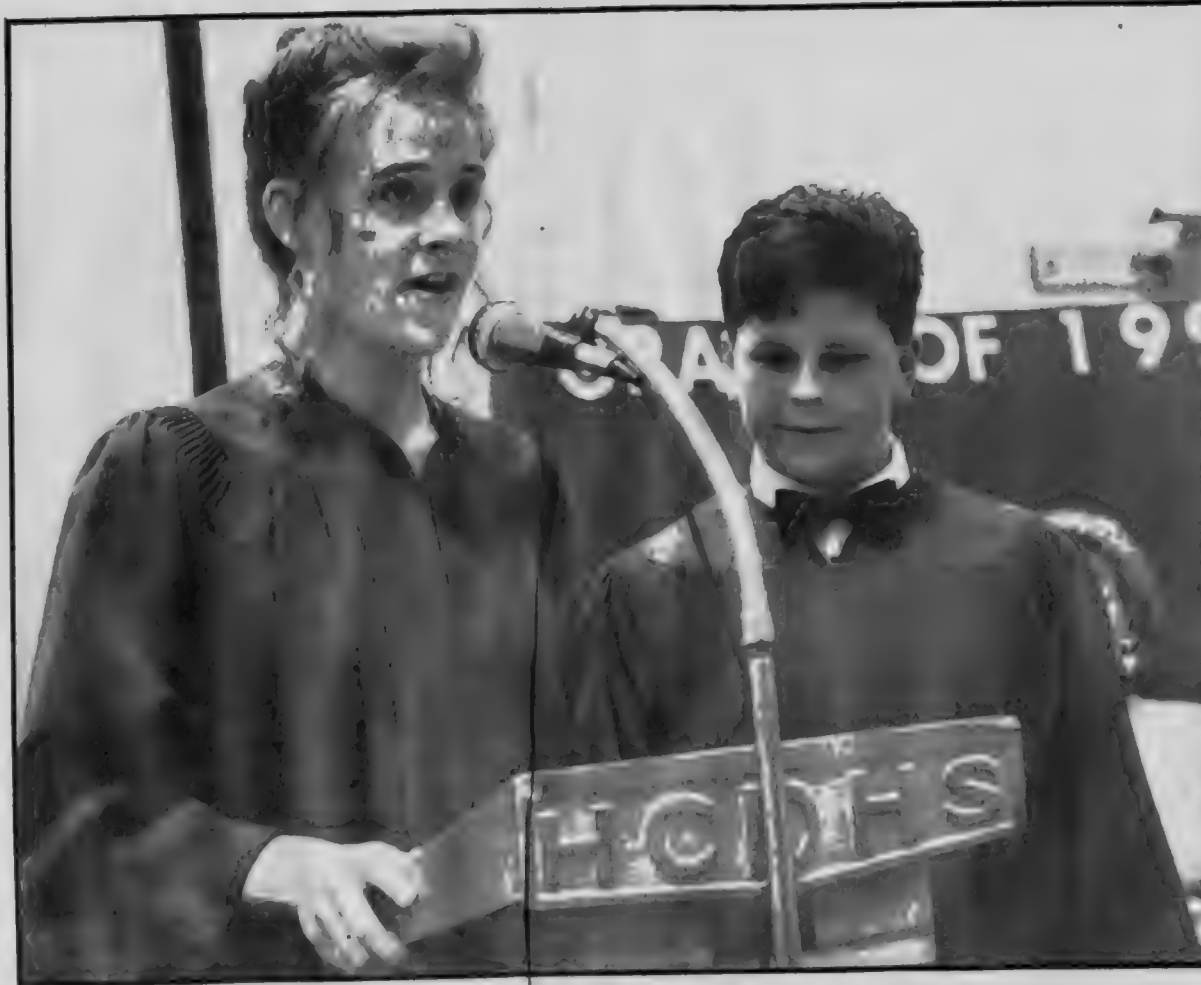

As we eagerly enter into the next stage of life's journey, we take with us the special memories of the past nine years of school. We have all come from different places, different towns, different beginnings and yet somehow we have truly merged together into a special community of friends who support one another.

We remember our successes, our failures and most importantly, we remember the friendships we have made. As we look back and remember, we are thankful that most of our memories are good ones.

Each of us remembers how it felt to come to the "big school" in Grade 3. We were all a little bit scared at first. Soon enough we became more relaxed as we made new friends and were reunited with our old friends. Our teachers tried to help us make the transition into the new school.

Remember back in Grade 3 and 4 when we all looked up to the "big kids" in the school? We even remember the big bullies who used to pick on us. Just think about it...we are now the "big kids" at J.D.H.E.S. As we moved up through the grades, we started to realize that we could actually learn things at school and that our teachers sometimes really knew what they were talking about. New friendships and friendships from the past turned into long lasting relationships.

School is where we have made our very best friends. In fact, they are probably one of the biggest reasons we wanted to keep coming back to school, day after day, and year after year. We know that is probably true of most of us here. Our friends were always there to help and support us and sometimes they were also there to push us along the long road to success.

Our definition of a friend is someone who will always stand by you, no matter what. Our friends are a very important part of our lives. As we move on to high school, we know we will make some new friends and yet we also realize that we will always have a special bond with the friend we have made at J.D.H.E.S. A special bond that hopefully will never be broken no matter what else happens in our lives. Relationships were built here we will remember and keep strong forever because without those special people, we wouldn't be here today.

School is probably where our social lives and skills have been most developed. School is where we learned respect not only for others but also for ourselves. We have learned to never quit trying. Our success down life's highway will depend on our determination and the support of our friends, peers and families.

As Mr. Brydon remarked to us, no one got to be dressed in a blue gown tonight without the help and support of a lot of people. Freya and I would like to take a moment to thank some of those "special" people.

First and foremost we offer our heartfelt thanks to our family members. Moms and Dads, brothers and sisters, grandparents, aunts and uncles and maybe even cousins. All of you have had a special place in our lives. You have helped mold us into the young people we are today. We appreciate your steady support and unfailing love.

We have heard our parents remark and say how lucky we are to have such wonderful teachers here in our small community. We are so fortunate to live in an area where even the teachers take a personal interest in their students. Over the years, we have had lots of different teachers. Each teacher has been special in his or her own unique way. Teachers come in lots of different shapes, sizes and personalities. In spite of their differences, they all seem to have the common goal of wanting to help us learn and grow.

Our teachers have been proficient in teaching us our academic lessons but more importantly they have taken the time and trouble to explain many "life" lessons to us. We haven't always agreed with one another and yet we always somehow knew that our teachers cared about us on a personal basis and that our teachers wanted only the "best" for us.

As we Grade 8 graduates complete the first stage of our education, we desperately want to be successful. From the time we were toddlers, we have so often heard the phrase "Try your best!" Our parents use the phrase for encouragement. Our teachers use it to motivate us to work hard before an important test or assignment. Our coaches and team mates coax us to do our very best as we play that all important "game" ...whether it be at the hockey arena, on the baseball field or on the volleyball court.

We believe that our personal success begins in our heart and mind. We must believe in ourselves. We must have confidence in our ability to achieve whatever we set out to do in this life. On the other hand, we must also accept our strengths and weaknesses.

Each of us is born with special, unique strengths. I like to think of them as "gifts" ...to be accepted and then improved upon. As we work at using our "gifts" we are well on the road to success in our lives.

We are now beginning a new stage of our adolescent lives. As our new journey begins, we must endeavour to "always try our best". Of course, we will make mistakes and we will have disappointments. When mistakes are made and disappointments come along, we must never give up.

If you think you are "beaten", you are. If you think you'll lose, you're lost. Success begins with a person's faith in herself or himself. When we "give up", we not only let down our families, teachers and friends but more importantly we let down ourselves. We must always strive to be the "best we can possibly be". We must believe in ourselves.

In closing, once again we want to express our gratitude to each one of you packed into this gymnasium here tonight. Your presence here gives us confidence in knowing that we will succeed down life's journey. Don't forget to continue your support of us as we wander the halls of H.H.S.S., confused and a little bit nervous. We can assure you that your help and support will never be forgotten.

JDHES honors its Grade eights at graduation ceremony

Student is easy for the teachers, but hard for the winner. To receive this trophy, which was donated by Gerald Irish in memory of his father, Charles, the student must attain the highest grade average that year. This year's recipient is Jeremy Roberts, the son of Rocky and Kim Roberts.

After the graduates were given their diplomas by Mr. Brydon and Director of Education Brad Saunders, refreshments were served. A graduation dance at the curling club followed.

The following are the top students in each of the four Grade 8 classes:

English: Freya Lilius, Allison Kennedy, Jeremy Roberts, James Loftus

French: Freya Lilius, Kim Mulholland, Graeme Fawcett, James Loftus

sparkling Christmas cones come to mind, but one thing that has remained constant is the will and desire to succeed that this school generates whether it be in academics, sports or just being a member of the community. Tonight our community and families celebrate how far we've come, and with their guidance, we celebrate how far we have to go.

Mr. Brohman, Mr. Burke, teachers, fellow graduates, parents, family and friends, it's a great honour to be able to speak to you on behalf of this year's graduates. An honour which I will always remember because of the permanent nervous condition I'll have after giving this speech. I'm sure most of our teachers can appreciate bad nerves at some point after getting us through high school.

Throughout the last four years at H.H.S.S. our teachers have taught us many different skills that will enable us to succeed in a future which holds many challenges. I'm sure we can all remember a certain teacher, who gave us guidance and encouragement to get where we are all sitting tonight.

Our school, although small, is much more personable which I believe has had a significant influence between teacher and student relations. The teachers and staff have provided us with encouragement to be more self-disciplined in meeting assignment deadlines, punctuality, and getting the necessary resources to be successful. We are fortunate to have teachers who praise us when they know that we've done well or have tried our hardest. What we have learned will have an effect on society, on our children. We have a larger opportunity to affect thousands, perhaps millions of people with our accomplishments.

However, not all our learning has taken place in the classroom. Those of us who have been involved in various sports, clubs and activities offered here, have come to learn that everywhere in life there are opportunities to learn and grow with experience, something we could never get from a text book. We have the responsibility to decide where we belong, who we will be and most importantly, what we will stand for in life.

Perhaps one of my most memorable moments was the opportunity to work with the puppets for Kids On The Block. I believe that this program helped to develop a sense of understanding, caring and tolerance, of the social and physical disabilities faced by many people, in this changing world.

One of the greatest assets I've derived from H.H.S.S. are friends. We've shared so much of our lives, we've talked about dreams and goals, we've shared happiness and pain, some caused by one another, and because of this, a bond will always remain. There isn't a certain word or phrase that can describe friendship as each one is unique in its own way. Many thoughts crossed my mind, but the best way to put it is that friendship is simply one of the best things in life. Friends can be made anywhere.

Friends are essential because they bring out the best in each of us, and when they see our worst they still care. Friends don't judge, they accept us for what we are. In happy memories that are the stars and in our sad memories they are the shoulders we cried on and the hearts that listened. Friends always help you in your time of need and when things are going smoothly they are content just to be your friend. Friends help create all your fun times, and are always there to spread laughter and joy. They are also there the next day to tell you about your fun times when you can't quite remember for yourself. But as far as friends go, our parents are probably the most important ones we have. They've had to put up with late nights, early mornings, busy telephones, persistent requests and some really lame excuses. What would we have done without their constant nagging? For me at least, the support of my parents has been invaluable, and I would like to thank them and tell them, that I am proud to be their daughter.

Now that our high school days are over we will have to become more self-sufficient. We are faced with all the hopes and fears of what the future may bring. Although we know that everything in life is not guaranteed, with the knowledge and skills we have acquired, we will now be able to make the best of any situation. There will be ample opportunities for us in our chosen fields, but we will now have to strive that much harder to succeed in this very competitive world, for the race is not given to the swift nor to the strong, but to he that endures.

Although we have received reassurance throughout our school days we are now at a path in our road where once we receive our diplomas tonight we must make a conscious decision to carry out our career and personal aspirations to be the best we can be. Whether it be college, working, or surfing in Australia, our destiny is not a matter of chance, it's a matter of choice. It is not a thing to be waited for, it is a thing to be achieved. We must go forth from here tonight with enthusiasm for our future - that's the driving force in life. Expect more good than bad, expect to succeed more than you fail, and give more than you receive.

This evening will be perhaps the last time for us to share together as a group. It closes this chapter of our lives which can never be reopened.

The memories we will take with us are different for each one of us, although we must have had some common goals along the way, as we have all achieved what we set out for. If we face confidently in the directions of our dreams, then success will chase us.

For most the sky is the limit. For us it is just the beginning. Congratulations to the class of '94.

OAC students prepared for life after high school

get and there were those that I know I will cherish forever. I imagine everyone has this same outlook. We all come into this school (or similar one) with the same mix of fears and expectations. I'm not sure which there was more of: terror or anticipation. Yes, high school managed to upset me so much that I hated it and everything to do with it after three days. Obviously, not everyone had this experience, but the point I'm attempting to make is that once the scare tactics ended, I truly enjoyed myself. Not all the time, but enough to make me stop threatening to run off and join the circus.

Those next five years have, at the risk of sounding cheesy, I'm going to say it, flown by. What once seemed to be of monumental importance is now something to laugh at. Friendships have been formed, most kept, but some have drifted apart. This has been my own experience and, while there is a kind of bittersweet pain that comes with reflecting on how our lives just stopped moving in parallel directions, I realize that this is most certainly a part of growing up and always will be.

Twenty years from now, the chances that the majority of us will have remained in touch with more than two others are fairly non-existent. I don't see this as a negative thing, though. High school has been an integral part of my life, but I don't see it as a focal point for the rest of it. By saying this, I don't mean to imply that I haven't had wonderful experiences or that I won't remember them fondly. I will.

This year has been especially enlightening for me. The entire class pulled together as a group in a way I had never imagined. People who I would normally have had only a passing association with, I became closer to. The sense of camaraderie flourished as there was always someone to commiserate with about a particular assignment, test, class, teacher or life in general. I always found the support I needed. At this point I would like to thank Mrs. Willis on behalf of the class. While certainly not the only teacher who helped us, she is the one teacher that all of us had contact with this year at least a couple of times. Without her down to earth guidance, it's quite likely that a few of us, myself included, would have tripped over that fine line and gone off the deep end. Thank you. Our families thank you.

Within the last two weeks we all received our letters of acceptance or otherwise from university. Disappointment was something I had to experience on a scale I had never before realized. I was also angry at myself for setting my expectations too high, until it was pointed out to me that even though I had ultimately not achieved my goal, through trying for it I had enriched myself in ways I otherwise might not have. Not only that, if I hadn't tried, I would always have wondered if I had short changed myself. Fortunately, I had a second choice that, while not my dream, I would also be happy with. I look at this as a way to lead your life. Set high goals, work like crazy to achieve them, but realize that whether you win or lose, it is the effort put forth that matters. I never really believed that before now. I must be growing up.

These last few years have all occurred with the premise that we are being prepared for life in the "real world", whatever that is. The reality of the situation is that the world we're entering is not the same as it was a year ago.

We are a generation facing probably the most option filled years the planet has ever seen. New technology threatens to change the face of humanity in every aspect and maybe also to save it. It is through the lively, sometimes too much so, discussions in our classrooms that we have been given the chance to examine the principles of others as we identify our own. This is the one thing I believe this school has succeeded at unquestioningly and I'm grateful for it because we will be called upon to make these decisions. It is up to us to take the strength and occasional wisdom of our parents, teachers and peers and incorporate our own version into a power which will influence the world in a positive way. It's all out there waiting, we shouldn't feel restricted or threatened. All that's left is to do it.

Best of luck. Thank you.

New gym gives bright start for Archie Stouffer Grade 8 graduates

by KEITH MCKELVEY
HHSS Co-op Student

ON THURSDAY JUNE 23, Grade 8 graduation was held for students at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. The ceremony was held in the brand-new gymnasium at the school, and a tea was held afterward in the brightly-lit foyer by the Home and School Association.

A dance was also held in the gym, and the grads partied the night away, wanting to end their years in the Minden school in a fun way. After all those years of hard work, it was their time not to have to worry about assignments and marks.

Grade 8 graduates are the Minden community's pride

Students receive diplomas from teacher Dale McConnell

The Echo would like to thank HHSS Co-op student Keith McKelvey for all his help over the past six months. Keith has contributed a lot to the newspaper's pages, improving our coverage of high school events and we wish him well with whatever career he decides upon

Home evacuated Extendicare

John Menzies

June 25, 1994: Residents sat and watched, as volunteers, dressed as residents were bundled up by fire fighters and nursing staff in a Mock Evacuation.

They showed no sense of panic as the volunteers (including the Scottish Highland Dancers) were wheeled to a safe location under the watchful eye of the fire inspector.

All were grateful for the opportunity to witness the superb effort of our local fire crew.

Jane Rosenberg ever mindful of the wellbeing of her charges was particularly pleased with the tips given by the chief for safe removal of residents in case of a real emergency.

Grandfathers Four, with Al Blanchard and Frank Faulkner came to visit and entertain on Thursday night.

The Extendicare Wheel Chair Rally and BBQ was an enormous success again this year in its attempt to raise money for Alzheimer Research.

Volunteers dressed in bright colours and wearing preposterous looking wigs and hats, wheeled residents through town waving at each passerby, and especially those who helped fill their donation jar with loose change.

They were especially grateful to Mother Nature who held off the showers so that the pancake makeup did not run down their costumes.

Barbara Fryer thanks Haliburton for its generosity, all the volunteers, Mike's Milk for the ice cream respite at the half way point, and Special Effects for the costumes.

Foot clinic comes to Gooderham

The Victorian Order of Nurses, Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton Branch, is pleased to offer a Foot Care Clinic in the town of Gooderham, beginning in July.

The clinic will be held on the second Wednesday of every second month, commencing July 13, 1994, in the Community Centre.

The VON is grateful to the township of Glamorgan for allowing the use of the space in the Centre to provide this service to community area residents.

VON nurses who provide vide foot care have received advanced in foot care. Treatment provided includes: assessment of the feet and nails, skin care, corn and callous care, counselling and teaching in foot care management aimed at prevention and self care.

VON also provides in-home foot care service for people unable to get out to a clinic.

The fee for the clinic in Gooderham will be $16 for a new client, and $12 for return visits. The in-home fee is $18 per visit. For appointments, call 1-800-267-2905.

Wilberforce honours its students

For all their hard work and co-operation over the past year, Wilberforce students were honoured at last-day-of-school ceremony

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

IN WAYS LARGE AND SMALL, the students at Wilberforce Elementary School have achieved a lot in the past year. Friday morning was the time to honour those achievements and bid farewell to the students graduating from Grade 6.

Gathered on a multi-coloured /// on the front yard of the school, the children applauded each other's success in academics, book-reading, jogging, sports, attendance and over-all helpfulness. As Principal Ted Glendinning handed out the certificates, the students' hard work was acknowledged by their peers and a number of parents.

Four special award winners were also recognized.

The Athletic Achievement Award goes to the student who is "a good athlete and a good sport, willing to try everything and show leadership to the younger students," said Mr. Glendinning. This year's recipient is Ryan Simioni.

All students do well in music, said teacher Janice Benoit, so choosing the recipient of the Music Award is very difficult. The Grade 6 students had a lot to learn this year and their hardest task was learning how to read music. The award's winner must show a high level of participation and achievement in all categories. This year's recipient is Lindsey Logan.

Pat Clarke also had a "pretty tricky" time choosing the recipient of the Citizenship Award. "This person has to be really good in a whole of ways. The student has to treat fellow classmates and teachers with respect and be willing to help out." This year's recipient is Tanya Watson.

With the Academic Award, choosing the winner is a bit easier. The award is for the student with the highest marks in all subjects. When Mrs. Clarke said that the winner was "the youngest in his family and every single brother is a special person in a different way," everyone knew the recipient is Mark Hughes.

"(These awards) might be something for you to shoot for in the future," Mr. Glendinning told the younger students.

The student at the school with perfect attendance was Trish Vanier.

Teacher Rob Meyers had words of praise for his Grade 1 and 2 students. When he arrived two months ago, "my main goal was to get them to co-operate and slowly I did see a difference. They started to help one another and were more polite," he said, congratulating the giggling students for their efforts.

After returning to their classes for a brief clean-up and goodbyes, the students left at noon, ready and eager to begin their summer holidays.

Principal Ted Glendinning was giving special certificates to his kindergarten students on Friday morning at Wilberforce Elementary School. Students of all grades were congratulated for all their efforts over the past school year

CARD OF THANKS

Often, when one is dealing with pain, bereavement or other adversity they do so alone, without the support of family or friends. I feel so fortunate that Helen and I did not have that experience. Instead, I have the difficult task of trying to thank the many, many people who have "been there" for us over the past few years.

My words of thanks go to the Doctors on Call and the staff at the Haliburton Hospital, the Ambulance Attendants, the staff at the Good Medical Centre and especially, to Dr. Harry Good for his care and genuine concern for us. For the MDS technicians, the Home Care and VON staff I have only the highest praise for their efforts and tender care. All levels of staff at St. Joseph's Hospital - from Nursing to Surgical teams and Patient Support exemplified what TLC is all about. The surgeons, like Dr. Belch and Dr. Ho used their skill so often to Helen's benefit it bordered on the miraculous. The Oncologists and staff at the Kingston Cancer Clinic also did their best to solve a problem that was not be resolved.

One of our greatest sources of comfort, however, was the genuine love and prayers of the congregations of all denominations throughout this area. During her palliative care weeks at home, Helen's deep faith and the knowledge of that support kept her fighting to the end. That support was so amply demonstrated by Gordon Monk and his staff, by Father Sal and the people of Our Lady of Fatima, by the many floral tributes, memorial donations, the tribute by the Royal Canadian Legion, the food sent to our home and the cards, messages and phone calls from all across Canada.

I could never attempt to thank, by name, the many friends who have been personally supportive and directly involved in our lives, but you know we do appreciate your love and concern. May God Bless All of You.

Municipality of Dysart et al PROPOSAL FOR CARDBOARD PICK-UP HALIBURTON LANDFILL SITE

The Municipality of Dysart et al, in an effort to prolong the life of the Haliburton Landfill Site, is encouraging the recycling of cardboard.

Individuals are asked to keep it clean and dry and deliver it to the cardboard area at the Haliburton Landfill Site.

The bulk of cardboard comes from commercial businesses and in order to avert a tipping and separation fee for cardboard, we are entertaining proposals and fees from private enterprise that would service the businesses that do not separate cardboard and deliver it to the Haliburton Landfill Site.

The proposal will be entertained on the basis of costs, service and delivery of the cardboard. More details can be obtained from the Municipal Office.

THE ACTING HEALTH SERVICES BOARD HALIBURTON COUNTY & AREA

MEETINGS

Meetings of the Acting Board are open to the general public. They will take place every second Wednesday and every fourth Tuesday of the month until further notice. Meetings will not be advertised on a regular basis.

Time will be allotted at the end of each meeting for public participation. For meeting locations and/or for individuals/groups interested in sharing their opinions/concerns with this committee in the form of a presentation, please contact Kate Reed, Interim Support Staff, at 705-286-3892.

MENTAL HEALTH CO-ORDINATING COMMITTEE

The Haliburton, Kawartha & Pine Ridge District Health Council is seeking applications from VOLUNTEERS interested in mental health planning. If selected, you will serve on a newly formed District Mental Health Co-ordinating Committee. You will participate in advising the District Health Council on planning for mental health services and supports within the district, consisting of Haliburton, Northumberland, Peterborough and Victoria counties.

Applications are invited from psychiatric consumer/survivors, family members, mental health professionals and individuals providing informal/generic support services. Please note that given the limited number of positions to be filled, not every application may be appointed. It is our expectation that the Co-ordinating Committee will be ready to begin its work in September 1994.

Interested individuals may obtain information by calling the District Health Council at (705)748-2992 or may apply in writing to:

Haliburton, Kawartha & Pine Ridge
District Health Council
Box 544,
Peterborough, Ontario K9J 6Z6

Please include your mailing address, telephone number, an outline of your experience and interest in mental health and other information you feel is relevant to this volunteer advisory role.

PUBLIC NOTICE of a PRESCRIBED BURN

Between late June and mid-August, the Ministry of Natural Resources will be conducting a prescribed burn for reforestation purposes on a 96 ha (237 acre) parcel of Crown Land in Hindon Township. The location of the burn will be between Cinder Lake and Tingey Lake - approximately 8 km southwest of Pine Springs. The exact date of the burn will depend on suitable weather conditions and any northern fire fighting assignments for the Haliburton Fire Centre's crews. The most probably date for burning will be during the last two weeks in July.

If you observe smoke or helicopter activity in the area of the prescribed burn during this period, please do not drive to the area for a closer look. Access to the burn site will be closed and curious onlookers will only block traffic on the access road and impede the movements of the M.N.R. fire crew. You will be welcome to view the site after the fire has been extinguished.

The purpose of this prescribed burn is to prepare a recently logged area for the planting of 200,000 pine and spruce trees in the spring of 1995. For more information on this prescribed burn or on other forestry activities in this area, please contact Peter Hynard of the M.N.R. Minden office at (705) 286-1521. For information on the day of the burn, please call the Haliburton Fire Centre at (705) 2107.

Wilberforce

Flo Elliott - 448-2618

The school year is over again, and the children will be happy for the break in routine. Perhaps some of the teachers will be relieved to have some time off as well. At least the weather has turned warmer so it should be a nicer holiday.

Father Tadeusz Porzuczek who has been the pastor at Our Lady of Lourdes in Cardiff (which also takes in Highland Grove and Apsley) is being transferred to Otonabee. He has been here for ten years, and the parishioners are having a Pot Luck dinner for him on Sunday, June 26 at the Cardiff Community Center, to see him off to his new parish and to wish him good luck. The new pastor will be Father Ron Myers and we are looking forward to meeting him.

The Seniors club broke for the summer months on June 21 with a delicious barbecue lunch prepared by the men. There were hot dogs and hamburgers and strawberries and ice cream for dessert. It will likely be a busy summer, so see you in September.

Speaking of seniors, the new apartments are on the way and many people are eager to sign up for them. These projects don't just happen, they take a lot of hard work and interest. So it would be a good idea to congratulate the reeve and council on their efforts, because it has been these people who have kept this project alive through all the time it has taken to get the grants and all those other things that have finally gotten this started. This is going to be a wonderful convenience for those who need them, as well as an attractive addition to the community.

Now I have a handy, dandy hint for you. I found it in Outdoor Canada, a very nice little magazine. If you or anyone you know comes in contact with that dreaded Poison Ivy, this is supposed to be almost instant relief, and cure it in twenty-four hours. Jewelweed, also known as touch-me-not, is a natural antidote. It grows near streams or wet boggy areas. In fact there is some growing by Dark Lake right now, near where we live. To treat the poison ivy, first break, roll or pound the stalks and leaves of the jewelweed until you get a juicy mass, then apply this juice to the affected area generously. The relief from the itching should be almost instant.

The results of the final Euchre Party for the year were: Lone hands, Doris Hogan; Ladies high, Irma Dunford; Men's high, Walter Cameron; Ladies low, Phyllis Bowen; Men's low, Ethel

Deterling. The door prize was won by Irma Dunford. Thank you to all the people who came to support the card parties throughout the year. See you in the fall.

Lions Charter Night includes delicious dinner and dance

Dorset

Phyllis Briscoe - 766-2237

Happy birthday wishes to Vi Sampson and Ralph Haven. We wish them the best.

Continued get well wishes to Diane Griffin who recently underwent surgery at Wellesley hospital in Toronto. We wish her a speedy and complete recovery from her problems.

The Dorset Lions held their Charter night dinner and dance at the Recreation Centre with a good attendance. They enjoyed a delicious dinner, catered by the Dorset Lifeliners.

Dancing was enjoyed to the music of Disc Jockey, Andy MacKay. During the evening an award was presented to Harvey Warkington for fifteen years perfect attendance.

Guests at the meeting were a couple from Australia, who are spending their honeymoon here and are house guests of Geno and Esther Balistrin.

The Dorset Volunteer Fire Dept. and the Dorset Lions Club are combining their efforts and merchandise to sponsor an oversized Flea Market on Saturday, June 25th. This will be held at the Dorset Fire Hall from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The proceeds will go to both organizations, both of which are worthy of your patronage.

Was it better when technology wasn't so highly developed? For instance, it used to be that if you dialled a business number, a pleasant electronic voice saying "you have reached so & so company, if you want to discuss your account, press 1, if you want to talk about a claim, dial 2" and so on until by the time you have pressed so many numbers that you have forgotten what you were calling for.

As for computers, I guess they are really wonderful inventions, but with all the data they seem to be able to collect, one wonders how many people, (whether they want to or not) know what cereal one eats for breakfast or tooth paste one uses. This electronic intimacy isn't for me.

There used to be a cartoon that ran in the papers titled "Born a Hundred Years Too Soon". Maybe that's me.

The Friends of the Dorset School are holding a raffle lottery. The tickets are $2.00 and are available from the parents of the students. If you wish to purchase tickets, please call Kathy Hamilton at 766-2438. The draw will be made on Sept. 16th at the Fall Fair and there are many wonderful prizes; A weekend for 2 at Deerhurst, includes tickets for Sing 94, a weekend for 2 at Grandview Inn, a weekend for 2 at Best Western Hidden Valley Resort (includes breakfast, 2 full day ski passes at Hidden Valley Ski Resort) and a dozen other great prizes. Proceeds fund extra curricular activities at Dorset Elementary School.

H.H. - The thickening power of 2 teaspoons of flour are equal to 1 teaspoon of cornstarch.

90th birthday happily celebrated

Senior League

Winnifred Barnum - 286-2140

Saturday we started a new week with a birthday party for Lola Prentice. It was arranged by her family and catered by the ladies auxiliary of Hyland Crest. It was her 90th birthday, June 11, 1994. The auditorium was tastefully decorated and about 250 friends and relatives came to offer their best wishes.

Lola was born June 11, 1904 and came to Minden in 1922. She taught school at Eagle Lake and on Hwy. 121 near Kinnmount at another school. She married Morgan Prentice in 1927. They had two sons, one killed in 1959 at the age of 20. Lola worked as a switchboard operator in the 1930's. They moved to Prentuskoka in 1936 and started a trucking business. Lola ran a camp, store, post office and gas station.

They came back to Minden in 1946 and established a road excavation business. She was a long-time member of Eastern Star and the United Church. She has been a resident of Hyland Crest since January 1980.

In the late afternoon Lola's family took her to the legion where they had a sit down dinner for 45 family members and guests. It was a long day for Lola but a joyful one.

We all wish her many happy returns.

Rev. John Burgess took Sunday Night Chapel service and Mary Fisher played the organ. Thank you John and Mary.

Monday the folks of Hyland Crest were invited to the arena for a tea with the council members.

Each year the council of Minden and residents enjoy a tea in which the council serve the residents. It is an opportunity for us to meet our council members, thank you to everyone for an enjoyable afternoon. I was unable to attend as I had an appointment with the C.N.I.B. in Haliburton to teach me how to cope with my failing eye sight.

Tuesday morning Chapel Service was led by Pastor Fast. There was good attendance and everyone enjoyed the service. In the afternoon we had crafts and in the evening Pearl Cowan and Corinne Arsenault came to help with Euchre. Thanks girls.

Wednesday we went on the bus to the Highlander Motel. Dale English and his wife Leslie run a snack bar there. We sat under Umbrellas and enjoyed our lunch from the snack bar. We thank Dianne the Motel Proprietor for her thoughtfulness and help with little things.

Wednesday evening Everett Fearrey came and sang and played the guitar. Thanks Everett.

Thursday Afternoon the Hyland Crest Ladies Auxiliary had a tea party. We had ice cream and squares. It was a lovely tea and when we finished Linda led us in a sing song of oldies that we could remember. Thanks to the auxiliary. In the evening Lilian Harrison called numbers for Bingo as our regulars didn't come in. It was a very hot evening.

Friday morning Diana Williams came and played the piano for the residents, thank you Diana. Happy hour was as usual a success. The Cooper boys entertained us with songs accompanied with their instruments. It was a big hit with the residents.

How to make an open house better

This article is provided by local Realtors and the Ontario Real Estate Association (OREA) for the benefit of consumers in the real estate market.

If you've ever bought or sold a home, you're probably familiar with open houses and the role they can play in the sale or purchase of a home. Open houses are a marketing tool which can help give you a home exposure, allowing several potential purchasers to view properties over the course of a day or two — usually on a weekend.

In addition to holding open houses for the public, real estate practitioners also conduct open houses for other real estate professionals. This gives them a chance to promote their listings with other practitioners who may have suitable buyers who would be interested in these particular properties.

If you're a vendor, your real estate professional will provide you with some helpful hints on how to make your property more marketable.

First of all, your property should be in top-notch condition to create a favorable and lasting first impression with potential buyers. Keep your lawn trimmed and tidy. Also make sure that all trees, hedges and shrubs look neat — not unruly. Trim branches that block the view of your home or hide some of its best assets.

Repair any unsightly cracks or holes in your walkways or steps that could prove to be a safety hazard. And don't leave tools and toys strewn around the front or back yards. These detract from your home, making it look like an obstacle course. They could also prove to be hazardous if someone tripped over them.

If your trim or siding looks dirty, wash it using an appropriate cleaning solution. (Your hardware store can probably give you tips on what's best to use.) And if your paintwork is peeling or blistering, it's time for some cosmetic surgery. A little paint can go a long way to enhance the marketability and curb appeal of your home. If you're unable to tackle the job yourself, hire a professional for best results.

Indoors, open up curtains and blinds to let in as much natural light as possible. This helps show your home to its best advantage. And be sure to move any clutter out of sight and rearrange furniture that might impede traffic flow.

Rooms should also be thoroughly aired and as fresh as possible — particularly if you have pets or someone in your family is a smoker.

Your Realtor will recommend that you leave the premises during the open house to help make prospective buyers feel as comfortable and relaxed as possible. If you're in the house, purchasers are likely to be more intimidated and reluctant to give your home the thorough viewing it deserves.

You want people to fully appreciate all the attributes your home has to offer — and they may not feel like opening closets and cupboards or talking about decorating possibilities if you're in the house.

Make arrangements for you, your children and pets to have a day-long outing during the open house. (After all, you don't want Fido jumping on or barking at prospective buyers — and you certainly don't want purchasers to mistakenly let Fluffy, your indoor cat, out the back door.)

Before you leave, put all personal property like jewelry, medications and fragile items well out of harm's way, in a safe, secure storage place. Don't leave any money lying around. To make sure everything is secure and ready to receive visitors, quickly inspect your home with your Realtor just before you leave.

Realtors know that it's important to control traffic in and out of open houses and to have a register for all visitors to sign.

If you have any particular concerns about the open house, don't be afraid to talk to your Realtor to see what suggestions he or she might have.

On the flip side of the coin, if you're a buyer attending open houses, keep in mind that viewing an open house is a privilege.

Also keep in mind that the Realtor on duty is acting as host of the open house on the vendor's behalf. The salesperson should be treated with the same respect you would give the vendor.

When asked to identify yourself at an open house, you should sign the guest register. The vendor has the right to request that you sign the register, providing your name, address and telephone number.

It's also important to refrain from wandering through the house without the salesperson present. If the Realtor is busy, wait until he or she is able to show you around. After all, the real estate professional will be able to point out the features of the home and answer any questions you may have.

When attending open houses, it's also important to clarify up front who you're working with — particularly if you've been viewing homes with another real estate professional. Keep in mind that the Realtor you're working with has gone to a lot of effort on your behalf and won't get paid a commission if you switch to another Realtor.

Local is guest of honour

West Guilford

Eleanor Cooper - 754-2388

Dick and Jean Henderson are proud grandparents of Jessica, born on June 17 in Markham to Marty and Manuela Henderson.

Sid and Louise Cooper attended the graduation of Dr. Michael Sawyer, son of Joan Bruce Sawyer, on Friday, June 17.

Barb Elliot was guest of honour at the retirement party held for her at the Frost Centre on June 16th. Barb will be working as program manager at Bark Lake Leadership Centre.

Looking ahead: St. Andrew's Yard and Bake Sale at the Centre happens on July 9. Donations may be brought to the church or you may call 754-2351, 754-3894 or 754-2541.

Vacation Bible School happens at St. Andrew's from July 11 to 15. The following items are needed: (I will pick them up if you give me a call) toothpaste boxes, cereal boxes, plastic film containers, wide ribbon, cheque-book boxes, frozen orange juice lids.

Congratulations to Nancy Bussey and Vicki

Sisson on graduating in the basic computer skills class. The class of 12 learned Lotus, Word Perfect VI and Windows 3.1.

The Brotherhood of Anglican Churchmen sponsored a ball game and pot luck supper at the centre on June 17. It looked like teenagers against the parents, mostly men and it is not clear whether the younger set were invited to serve themselves first at supper because they won or because they lost! Be that as it may, there was food in abundance. The youth group and leaders from the Chapel joined us for the event which was greatly enjoyed by all. Lots of food, lots of fun and lots of people made it a success. Thanks to all who participated.

Camp Medeba is running a day camp for 4 weeks in July for ages 7-12, with orientation on Sunday 6:30 p.m. and program 8:30 - 5:00 p.m. daily and features a wide selection of activities for participation. 754-2444.

Tom Clifford's Seniors group from Toronto made the bus trip for the fourth annual visit to Lakeside Golf Course on Wednesday, June 22. About 35 people participated, enjoying the greeting by the piper as they arrived, the refreshments provided and the coolness of the lawn under the trees by the house before their return to the city.

"Showtime '94" a big hit in Coboconk

Coboconk

Sheila Lake - 454-2314

After 35 years of teaching school, Jim Hopkins is retiring, and will enjoy his time as a farmer. A retirement tea will be held in the Coboconk Legion on July 2nd, from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Past students, friends and family are invited to bring their smile and best wishes, and maybe share a story of an amusing event of the past.

Last weekend saw lots of motorcycles in town, because the Ride for Sight was in action. More than $435,000. was raised for an eye disease. Mike Goreman from Sharon raised the most money, about $15,000 and Gary Restivo raised over $9,000., placing second in raising funds. A job well done by all the bike riders! Congratulations to O.P.P. Const. Dave Fletcher, who has received the community award of merit from the Victoria County Board of Education for working with students in four schools. Dave also received praise for tracking down and charging a boater who had pulled a water skier through a swimming area on Birch Bark Lake.

Local Ridgewood Public School teacher, Harvey Rainbow directed the play "Anne of Green Gables" at the school recently and received raves from all who seen it. Musical Director was teacher Debbie Fogwell. Rachel Wires played "Anne" and was outstanding. Marilla Cuthbert was played by Amanda Mantell and her brother Matthew Cuthbert was played by Jay Hall.

Outstanding sales were performed by Kara Fogwell and Amber Norman. Students and teachers, other staff, parents and students all worked hard to put on a superior play.

The local churches all joined together in a night of music at the Lion's Hall on Sunday night, June 12th. The program opened by singing "O Canada" and Mary Montgomery led in prayer.

Many more hymns were sung, and Norval Watson and his wife, sang a lovely duet. Dr. Fred Weir made an appeal for funds to purchase an ambulatory blood pressure monitor for the local medical centre. Dr. Weir, dressed in his kilt, played the pipes and the Scottish music was greatly enjoyed by all. The collection was counted and $514.35 was collected to help with the new monitor.

While it is nice to be front page news, the Bexley Fire Dept. was embarrassed by the picture of their fire truck, half submerged in the river on Thurs., the 16th morning, when they responded to a fire alarm call and fire truck rolled into the river.

Sunday, June 12th was the annual Coboconk Cemetery decoration service. The call to worship, by Rev. Dave Campbell, and Legion Color Party Scripture reading and prayer were also by Rev. Campbell. The prayer of invocation was by Rev. Pat Walsh. The Queen was sung and the Happy Wanderers sang "The Old Rugged Cross", with Carol Switzer supplying music. The Legion Color Party marched out of the cemetery after observing one minute silence to honor the dead.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Harris and son of Oshawa were weekend visitors of her mother, Mrs. Norah Lee, and Donna May Lee.

John and Gwen Faulkner and girls of Peterborough and Lloyd Faulkner of Foxboro, were Sunday visitors of their mother, Mrs. Myrtle Faulkner and their cousin, Lawrence Davis.

Rev. Larry Moore, his wife and four boys, are visiting his mother, Mrs. Betty Moore. Larry is pastor of a church in Saskatoon, Sask.

Sympathy goes out to the family of the late Leslie Fountain, a former Coboconk area resident, who passed away in Oshawa, on Wednesday June 15th, 1994.

On Saturday evening, June 11th, we thoroughly enjoyed the Lindsay Dance Studio's "Showtime '94" dance recital at the Academy Theatre. The director, Stephanie Rose and teachers, and choreographers, Jean Muir, Teresa Van Schaik, Emma Riomeirin, Janeen Auld, Trisha Boyd, Jennifer Hale and Chris Cook did a terrific job. The recital featured ballet, modern, Highland, Jazz and tap dancing, and our 10 yr. old granddaughter was in act one and again in Act two, Grade two, a modern number "Friend

Like Me."

The Kavartha Summer Theatre opens again for a busy season. "A Closer Walk with Patsy Cline" begins on June 29th, and goes through to July 8th.

Plan on seeing a good play at the Academy Theatre on some of these very warm evenings!

The loud, mournful cries were heard, shortly after 9 a.m. on Sunday morning, June 19th. We had finished breakfast and were getting ready for church, when we first heard them.

At first, it sounded like a bird, tho' not a cry usually heard. Then, my husband thought it sounded like a child, then no, it must be a bird. But since we couldn't see it, we tried to ignore it. Then, Wanda Liscombe, out for a walk, came near the sound, and came back to our house, telling us a wild goose was in trouble down the street. My husband immediately went with Wanda, and they found the cries were of a loon in distress. The poor creature must have mistaken the pavement for water, and since loons cannot walk, because of their short legs, and the location of those legs, far back on their body, it could not get up, nor fly. By this time neighbours Tom Jones and Fred Austin were also out on the street, along with our new neighbour, Mike. Tom Jones had donned thick gloves, hoping to pick the bird up, but it wanted to chase Tom. Enough of that! Someone suggested a net, so a net was produced, put over the loon and Mike followed by the rest of the rescue crew, carried the loon over to the river, put him down in the water and he dived out of sight, surfacing farther down the river, where he stood up and waved his wings good-bye!!

We are the adoptive parents of a pair of little wild ducks, that we have had for two weeks. They were tiny, only two or three days old when we got them. My aunt's neighbour brought them up from Toronto, little orphans, whose mother had been killed. We got duck food at the Co-op in Fenelon Falls, and our two little ones, named Barb and Burt, are growing up fast! We have them in a large wire cage, out in the sunshine, on the lawn, and they have lots of shade, water and food. We have been told they are wild black ducks, not mallards, as we thought.

Soon, when they are all feathered out, we hope to release them back to nature, and can use any advice from someone who knows, on how to return them to the ways of the wild duck. We just want them to have a good start in life, and the security that all little baby creatures need! I'd welcome your input!

The Faith Tabernacle Ladies breakfast was held at the Summer Kitchen restaurant on Sat. morning, June 18.

The couples night out will be a Golf Scramble for the couples from Faith Tabernacle on Sat. June 25th.

Also, Faith Tabernacle and Trinity Full Gospel churches are again having Sunday night open air services at the I.G.A. parking lot. Lots of good music and you can sit in your own car and make yourself comfortable.

The Anglican Church will hold a pancake breakfast on July 2nd, a Saturday in Church Hall

Look at Gooderham's achievements

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

AT THURSDAY'S GRADUATION and award ceremony in Gooderham, Principal Ruth Lewis said "we don't often notice what's around us." Proof of that is the Gooderham school, tucked up on a hill above the village. Day after day, teachers have been teaching, children have been learning, and everyone has been able to mix in a fair dose of fun and friendship.

And yet we sometimes forget to notice all the good things going on at the school. "We've got something really fantastic going for us here," the principal commented with pride.

Well, on Thursday, everyone made amends as they sat up and took notice of the six students who were graduating from Grade 6. They also applauded the accomplishments of all the students over the past year. It was definitely a time to acknowledge the special role the school plays in the community. The ceremony was attended by friends, relatives, Haliburton County Board of Education Chairman Lloyd Griffiths, Glamorgan Trustee Craig Pettit and Director of Education Brad Saunders.

Mr. Griffiths agreed with Mrs. Lewis's assessment. "I don't know if people realize what a good education system Haliburton County has," he told the people gathered at the community centre. "We have something to be proud of. Let's give them the support they need."

This was the first time in several years that Gooderham has held a Grade 6 graduation — because it's the first time in years there was a Grade 6. As part of the effort to reduce the strain on J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School, and as recognition of many people's desire to educate their children nearby, the board has added additional classes to the school.

"Next year will be a big change and we offer them our support and congratulations," said teacher Dianne Hagerman.

On behalf of her fellow graduates, Shannon thanked the teachers for making their school years both educational and interesting. "I am taking many happy memories with me."

The students presented gifts and letters to their teachers, who they described with fondness and admiration. (Tom Bates had this advice to students who will be in Jim Hopkins' class next year: "Have fun — you might never have a chance to have a teacher that lets you have it so often.")

Flowers were also presented to the parents who never hesitate to help out in any way they can: Linda Askew, Susan Brindle-Smith, Ann Costeloe, Sue Clarkson, Shelley Hunter, Leanne Kennedy, Barb Hunter and Bonnie Pettit. "Volunteers bring to the school their talents, their skills and their energy," said a grateful school secretary, June Smith.

Trustee Craig Pettit thanked the community and the school staff for their efforts over the past year. "It makes our job a lot easier when people work together to create an atmosphere just as we have at Gooderham school."

Awards were given out to students as follows:
Perfect attendance: Julie Graham and Lynda Cheong

Mathematics: Tim Pettit, Tanya Hunter, Sarah Traviss, Tina Costeloe, Billy Hunter.

Music: David Brindle, Shannon Billings.

Spelling: Tracy Billings.

HHSS graduates celebrate an end and a beginning

The smiles were almost as bright as the camera flashes that helped capture the moment on Saturday night as Haliburton high school's graduating class assembled to receive their diplomas and celebrate the end of one phase of their lives.

Principal Gary Brohman, in a brief address, told the students he was confident their education at HHSS had given them the tools to go out in the world and be successful.

"I am confident you will do well" said Brohman, who urged the graduates to "accentuate the positive" in their lives. "The greatest gift you have is the power to choose" he said. "Do not take it lightly."

Brohman urged the students to live by three simple rules: First, do what is right. Second, do the very best you can, because success only comes with effort. And thirdly, do unto others as you would have them do unto you.

"Be pro-active" Brohman said. "Be our builders."

He concluded his address with a quote from American writer Oliver Wendall Holmes: "What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us."
